

Funeral Rites Today For Frank S. Messer

Funeral services will be conducted today at Carthers, his old home, for Frank S. Messer, 37, World War veteran, who died in the United States Veterans hospital at Otis, N. C., Monday morning. Mr. Messer was a brother of Mrs. A. M. Puskett, of 1603 Howell Mill road.

He enlisted in the army at the outbreak of the war at La Junta, Colorado, where he was a salesman. He was at the front in France with the 105th engineers of the 30th division. Two years after his discharge in 1919 he re-enlisted in the engineering corps and was promoted to the rank of sergeant. Tuberculosis was contracted while in service at Washington, D. C., and he first was sent to Denver, Colo., to recuperate. He afterwards came to Atlanta and lived with his sister for a while, but re-entered a government hospital near Asheville.

He was a member of the Underwood Methodist church while in Atlanta and of the Pinehurst, F. A. & M. lodge. Besides his sister, he is survived by his father, R. P. Messer, of Carthers; a brother, B. E. Messer, of Chatsworth, and another sister, Mrs. J. S. Smith, of Oklahoma.

GRAND JURY WITNESS CAN REFUSE ANSWER

Constitutional Rights Upheld by Superior Judge in Hartford.

HARTFORD, Conn., March 25.—(AP)—The constitutional right of refusal to answer questions of a grand jury by witnesses who are engaged in the liquor traffic on the ground that answers might be self-incriminating, is an allowable privilege, Superior Judge Newell Jennings held today. In so ruling he discharged Mayor Walter E. Batterson and former State Senator Edward N. Allen, who were before him as recalcitrant witnesses at a meeting of a special grand jury investigating liquor conditions.

The court said that the jury appeared to have relied primarily for its information on "persons engaged in the liquor traffic." If his ruling hampered the grand jury it could so report and he would discharge it, the court declared.

The jury, sitting at intervals since January 4, has been investigating liquor conditions as revealed by the killing of one bootlegger by another. Judge Jennings held today that secured the jury in an effort to clean up bootleggers, run-running and other questionable conditions in the county.

Mayor Batterson was drawn into the inquiry when members of the Hartford police department were called into the jury room. As a witness, twice he had been asked about a $500 purchase of liquors from a bootlegger through a "friend." The jury report to the court indicated that the "friend" might be Mr. Allen and the bootlegger was one "Murphy."

Court action was taken to obtain an order compelling both Batterson and Allen to answer specific questions about the liquor transaction. The jury itself had no power to punish for refusal to answer but in event an order had been given and they persisted in their refusal, the jury could have asked the court to punish them for contempt.

In the proceedings this afternoon the legal angle turned on whether the respondents had to show that answers they might give to the jury would be self-incriminating, or whether the state's attorney had to show that such answers would not be self-incriminating.

The court ruled that neither respondent had to answer the questions when he took refuge in his constitutional rights. Prosecutor Alcorn took two exceptions to the ruling, one to supposed assertion of the court that the burden of proof of incrimination was on the state, which was not allowed, and a general one.

Tobacco Magnate Dies at Jersey Home

HADDONFIELD, N. J., March 25.—(AP)—Henry D. Moore, financier, tobacco magnate and banker, died at his home here last night. He was 87.

Moore at one time headed the greatest snuff trust in the country. He was affiliated with the late James B. Duke in the formation of the American Snuff Company, which declared a trust under the terms of the Sherman anti-trust law, was dissolved in 1911.

He founded several banking institutions in south Jersey.

His other business activities included the construction of a 100-mile railroad through the Rocky mountains, connecting Harlowton and Lombard, Mont.

Funeral services will be held from the First Presbyterian church here, which he built in 1906 as a memorial to a dead son, Gilbert. He was active in Masonic circles, having been past master of the Haddonfield Masonic lodge, and bought the land for a financed the Masonic temple here.

AMERICAN'S BODY FOUND IN SEINE

PARIS, March 25.—(AP)—The body of Fritz Tschappat, 29, naturalized American, of Dover, Ohio, was found floating yesterday in River Seine. Police believed he was a suicide, since money and valuables still were in his pockets.

Tschappat was born in Berne, Switzerland, and was returning from a visit there. The American consulate cabled Fred Brandt at Dover, whose name was on Tschappat's passport.

10th Anniversary of Woman's Suffrage Celebrated Today

CARRIE CATT TO BROADCAST BENEFIT "FREEDOM" BRINGS

WASHINGTON, March 25.—(AP) In nationwide celebration of the tenth anniversary of suffrage, women of America will turn again tomorrow to that 70-year-old pioneer campaigner of the woman's cause, Carrie Chapman Catt, as chief spokeswoman.

Her anniversary address will be broadcast Wednesday to luncheon table festivities from coast to coast, between 2 and 2:30 eastern standard time. In relating the hopes of the founders she will translate past struggles for the ballot into terms of future world peace.

Mrs. Catt also will call the attention of the nation to a $250,000 League of Women Voters' foundation fund, memorializing a "roll of honor" of women leaders who campaigned for suffrage.

Taking stock of what ten years has accomplished in official recognition of the women who battled for the ballot, their leaders today saw that feminine names gradually had filtered into high places.

None was on the list of cabinet or supreme court, and the senate, where the suffrage question, was most bitterly fought, today was merely threatened by a first feminine invasion from the electorate, with Ruth Hanna McCormick, representative at large from Illinois, campaigning for the senatorial nomination.

But the house could show an 8-to-0 ratio as against 10 years ago. In 1920 Pioneer Jeannette Rankin (1917-1919) had gone, and Alice Robertson (1921-23) and Winifred Huck (1922-23) had not arrived.

Today the "little woman bloc" of the 435 member house marked the suffrage anniversary celebration by appreciations as follows:

"Suffrage? A success!" Pronounced Mrs. Pearl Oldfield, democrat, Arkansas, who has chosen to cut her own political career short by not running for re-election to the seat formerly held by her husband.

"It justifies the faith of the pioneer," said Representative Katherine Langley, republican, Kentucky.

"We who are in politics owe a tremendous debt of gratitude to the suffrage pioneers," Representative

Mary T. Norton, democrat, New Jersey.

"Women are more and more awakening to political consciousness," Representative Ruth Baker Pratt, republican, New York.

Fundamentally Right.

"Equal sharing of responsibility and privileges is so fundamentally right it is difficult to realize what courageous pioneering it took ten years," Representative Ruth Bryan Owen, democrat, Florida.

"My thanks to Jeannette Rankin, who, being first, bore the brunt of the opposition," Representative Edith Nourse Rogers, republican, Massachusetts.

"Just one-half of the country's assets of intelligence were overlooked before women got the vote," Representative Florence P. Kahn, republican, California.

A decade ago the Congressional Directory, official who's who in important positions, listed by 17 women in 24 pages covering the 10 executive departments. And some of them were in parenthesis.

Today that list had been lengthened to 48 names in 34 pages, and all were out in the open, on equality of typographic with the men.

Interior Secretary Wilbur, who left a woman running Stanford University when he came to Washington, now has the most official help from femininity with 15 women in high positions. Ten years ago, interior had but two. Labor, with two all-women bureaus, comes second with 13, and has long had a high comparative proportion.

The department of justice, much mentioned by the feminists when Mr. Walker Willebrandt was in office, ranks lowest in the list, with not a woman's name listed. In 1920, a woman was recorded there.

No more "razor pull"

Once you try the

New Gillette Blade and Razor at $1.00

you'll throw away your old razor

QUICK FACTS

1. New blade can be used in your old Gillette
2. New processed steel; new blade resists rust
3. Cut-out corners of blade prevent "razor pull"
4. To clean, turn guard at right angles... then re-tighten... rinse... shake dry
5. New shape guard channel gives full shaving clearance
6. New shape guard teeth meet skin smoothly, naturally
7. No projecting posts to dull blade edges
8. Reinforced razor corners prevent damage if dropped
9. Square blade ends safer to handle
10. Shaves easier around mouth, nose, ears
11. New blades same price as old
12. New razor, 24K. gold-plated, with one new blade, in case, $1.00

ISN'T it worth the price of a few smokes to have lifetime shaving comfort?

Men tell us they'd pay many times one dollar rather than give up their New Gillette Blade and Razor. This new shaving tool won't "pull," can't "pull"—even if you abuse it, drop it on the basin, roll it on the floor.

Here's why:—Gillette engineers found that "razor pull" is caused by dropping a razor and denting the corners. In a precision instrument such as the Gillette Razor, a slight nick may throw the blade out of alignment.

To meet this trouble, the entire razor and blade was redesigned at many points. The corners of the razor cap are reinforced with heavy metal lugs. Even if you should manage to dent this extra thickness of metal, you still won't throw the blade out of alignment. Why? Because all four corners of the new blade are cut out. The blade is under no pressure at the corners when cap and guard clamp together.

Now when you're through shaving, all you do is shift guard at right angles, re-tighten, and rinse under hot running water. No more taking the razor apart to wipe it. The blade is processed to resist rust. Just shake thoroughly and place on shelf. No more cut towels. No more wasted time.

The position posts too—which accidentally nicked more than one good blade edge—these are gone. Please note, too, how the guard teeth are rounded back farther to meet the skin more smoothly, and that the ends of the blade are squared off for safer handling with wet fingers and for closer shaving around the difficult corners of mouth, nose and ears.

Visit your Gillette dealer tomorrow. We are making every effort to fill the heavy demands for the new razor, but if you cannot get one at once, you can use the new blade in your old Gillette until the new model is available at your dealer's.

Constitution Adds Gold To Prize Campaign Offer

Special Merit Awards Will Be Made on Efforts Up to April 19.

Here's good news for candidates and those who are considering becoming contestants in The Atlanta Constitution's $25,000 prize campaign.

TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS in gold has been added as an award. ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS in gold will be awarded with the $3,120 Pierce-Arrow sedan (First Grand Prize).

FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS in gold will be awarded with the $2,855 Franklin Sedan (Second Grand Prize).

And FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS in gold will be distributed as SPECIAL MERIT PRIZES for extra effort during the period closing April 19.

This now makes the value of the first grand prize award total $4,120 and the total value of the second grand prize award amounts to $3,855.

Never before in the history of The Atlanta Constitution has such a list of awards been offered for such little effort. Prize-winning in The Atlanta Constitution's $25,000 prize campaign with 38 prizes, including cash, automobiles and radios, will be simple and easy as to be almost astounding. Besides these awards, there are also cash commissions. Every active candidate in The Atlanta Constitution's prize campaign will receive a reward.

Special Merit Prizes. The FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS in gold to be awarded as special merit prizes has been divided into seven awards as follows:

Two hundred dollars in gold to the candidate, regardless of district, turning in the greatest amount in new subscription business during the period ending at 9 p. m., April 19. One hundred dollars in gold to the candidate turning in the second highest amount in new subscription business during this period.

Seventy-five dollars in gold to the candidate turning in the third highest amount in new subscription business during this period.

Fifty dollars in gold to the candidate turning in the fourth highest amount in new subscription business during this period.

Twenty-five dollars in gold to each of the three next candidates turning in the highest amounts in new subscription business during this period.

The winning of these prizes will in no way effect the winning of the regular awards. A candidate can win one of these special merit prizes and also one of the regular awards.

During this same period, which ends April 19, a bonus of 100,000 extra credits will be given for every $30 club or combination of new paid-in-advance subscriptions and 50,000 extra credits will be given for every $30 club or combination of new contract subscriptions. These extra credits are given in addition to the regular credits allowed on each individual subscription.

Real Opportunity. What an opportunity for candidates during this period which ends April 19, which promises to be the most advantageous during the entire campaign. Gold to be won and extra credits to be received, with competition slight and no leading or outstanding candidates yet in the race. Could prize-winning be made easier?

What a simple matter to enter the campaign now, and while winning one of the special gold merit prizes, with the 100,000 and 50,000 extra credit added to a total that will bring you one of the big prizes at the close of the campaign.

During the next few days, until April 19, there is gold to win, extra credits to get, and the opportunity of taking a winning lead in the race—an opportunity that is made great by the little competition and activity shown so far in the campaign. These next few days will be prize-winning days in more ways than one. Enter the campaign NOW!

DEPUTY IS SENTENCED IN WHISKY VIOLATION

M. G. Sams, Fayette county deputy sheriff, convicted of possessing and selling whisky, by a jury in federal court here Tuesday, was sentenced to four months in the Fulton county jail by Judge Samuel H. Sibley. The violation is alleged to have taken place in 1927 and did not come within the provisions of the Jones law.

The defendant was allowed 30 days under $500 bond to arrange his affairs before starting to serve his sentence. Two other indictments were recently returned against him and additional true bills charge his son, Aubrey Sams, with prohibition law violations.

Identification of a check which the government claimed Sams took in payment for a quantity of whisky proved to be a bone of contention in the hearing of the case which was begun Monday afternoon. Sams denied that he had indorsed the check while the government put several witnesses on the stand who stated that they recognized his handwriting. A number of character witnesses also testified for the defendant.

NEGRO IS CONVICTED OF NISSON MURDER

Prisoner Admits He Shot Grocer But Denies He Is Murderer.

O. C. Hendrix, negro, Tuesday afternoon was sentenced to die in the electric chair at Milledgeville on May 9 for the murder of Sam Nisson, grocerman, at Nisson's store, on Fulton and Connelly streets, January 10, during an attempted hold-up.

Return of verdict of guilty in Hendrix's case followed the declaration by the defendant on the stand that he shot at Nisson in self-defense. Will Nisson, a defendant under the indictment, testified that Nisson did not shoot at Hendrix first.

Miss Jeanette Nisson, daughter of the slain grocerman, said Nisson did not shoot at all, and this testimony was corroborated by Weyman Dorsey, an employee at the store, who said that he saw Hendrix shoot Nisson as the latter fled from the store.

During the defense argument by Attorney George C. Farantos, Mrs. Nisson, the widow, became hysterical and charged the lawyer with "defending a red-handed murderer for money." As Mrs. Nisson advanced upon the attorney Judge Humphries instructed court bailiffs to escort her from the courtroom. Mrs. Nisson was allowed to return to the courtroom when the jury went out to consider its verdict.

The defendant was represented by Attorney Farantos and Attorney Clark Ray, Assistant Solicitor-General Ed A. Stephens conducted the prosecution.

In passing sentence, Judge Humphries asked Hendrix if he had anything to say. The defendant replied: "I just want to say that I am not guilty of murder, though I am guilty of shooting him."

Two Local Stores Burglarized Twice

Two Atlanta business places suffered visits from the same burglars twice, according to true bills returned Tuesday by the Fulton county grand jury.

Clifford Blackburn and Avery Carroll, alias Bonnie Lee James, were indicted on charges of burglarizing the store of the Ivan Allen-Marshall Company on February 26 and on March 19, and stealing $1,000 in fountain pens during the first visit, and fountain pens valued at a total of $350 on the return visit.

Blackburn and Carroll were indicted for burglarizing the Worcester Hat store, at 42 Marietta, and stealing goods valued at $157.19, and T. C. Sorrells' $22.50 watch. The pair of defendants also were indicted for burglarizing the N. C. Shop at 38 Marietta, and stealing $126.95 in goods. Some of the loot was recovered in the homes of the defendants. It was said.

Curtis Wesley, alias Jackson, was indicted on two charges of burglarizing Pecock Alley, on Peachtree near Spring street. Wesley is charged with stealing property valued at $98.70 on February 3 and $15.48 on March 20. At the solicitor-general's office, it was said that a policeman stopped Wesley, who had some of the alleged stolen property in his possession, and questioning of the defendant revealed the thefts.

Bowery Recruiting Offices Are Closed

NEW YORK, March 25.—(UN)—New York's Bowery, that main street of poverty which has for years been the most fertile spot in the country for army recruiting officers, is being abandoned by those gentlemen.

Recruiting sergeants will fold up their signboards, haul down their flags and desert the place tomorrow.

"And it'll be forever," said Major C. A. Pirvotto, chief of the city's recruiting office. "To succeed it is more suited than the Bowery for army recruits nowadays. Unskilled laborers, such as frequent the Bowery, are not the kind of men the army wants now."

Cause of 'Ginger' Paralysis Sought by Puzzled Experts

Federal Drug Experts at Washington Admittedly Baffled; Source of Supply Here Is Sought.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—(Special.)—After completing a series of elaborate preliminary tests, pure food and drug experts of the United States department of agriculture have admitted that they are still baffled in their efforts to find some definite connection between the drinking of Jamaica ginger and the 400 or more cases of the strange paralysis reported from Georgia and other states.

The receipts of additional reports of the strange malady found three separate government agencies, engaged in an exhaustive inquiry into the situation, the United States public health service, the prohibition enforcement unit, as well as the department of agriculture through the bureau of pure food, drug and insecticide administration. Efforts of all three agencies, however, have been fruitless thus far, although experts of the agricultural department have devoted themselves to nothing else practically for the past several days.

Dr. P. B. Dunbar, acting chief of the pure food and drug administration, informed The Constitution that his bureau, while still hoping that some clue to the paralysis might be developed, had been unable to establish any relation whatever between drinking of the common household product and the effects noted.

The investigation and tests will be continued, he said, for an indefinite period, or until the new illness is properly catalogued.

Department to Act.

At the same time he announced that the department is prepared to act immediately under the pure food and drug act if it is found that Jamaica ginger contains any ingredient which may be conducive to the new illness reported. Government officials, he said, will not only institute criminal proceedings against the manufacturers, but will promptly order the seizure of all stores of the products found in the country.

"Although we have conducted laboratory tests of samples of Jamaica ginger obtained from a number of states," said Dr. Dunbar, "we are yet unwilling to say that it is the causing agent of the strange paralysis, nevertheless," he added, "we are not recommending its consumption for drinking purposes. For several days the food and drug administration has done nothing else but study the situation and we intend to devote ourselves to it almost entirely until something definite is learned."

Dr. Dunbar said the tests had included injection of some of the ginger

samples into Guinea pigs, but sufficient time had not yet elapsed to determine the reaction. He pointed out that some of the victims of the paralysis had not suffered until three weeks after drinking the product.

Relation Is Indicated.

"Jamaica ginger by itself, as we have known it, would not cause the trouble," Dr. Dunbar continued. "If the paralysis is caused by drinking the product it must be due to the presence of some foreign ingredient which we have been unable to discover. Yet, we have certain physical evidences presented to us that tend to show a relation between the paralysis and the ginger. It is all very baffling, but we are going through with it as far as possible."

Dr. Dunbar discredited the suggestion that the malady had any connection with isopropyl alcohol, described as a first cousin of wood alcohol, which some medical authorities at first thought might have found a place in the manufacture of the ginger. So far as experts of the department know,

he said, this alcohol has no injurious effects, certainly none such as those which have been experienced by the 400 or more patients in the southern states.

Test Series Pending.

Officials of the public health service, which was the first government agency to start an investigation of the malady, said today they had a series of tests now pending which, they hoped, would be productive of important information. For the moment, however, experts there professed to be as much in the dark as those of the pure food and drug administration.

Dr. James M. Doran, commissioner of prohibition, said that his agents

throughout the country have been ordered to obtain samples wherever possible.

"We are making a comprehensive survey and collateral laboratory tests,"

he said, "hoping of being able to contribute something to the investigations that are being conducted by other agencies of the government. We are working on the case diligently and may have an announcement to make

in a few days."

Naval Cut Meeting Declared Failure

The London conference on limitation of naval armaments was described as a "humiliating failure" due to inadequate conception of the fundamental problem, by Haywood J. Pearce, Jr., professor of history at Brenau college, Gainesville, in an address Tuesday before the Atlanta Kiwanis Club in the Ansley hotel.

Political problems peculiar to each of the five great powers presented at the conference is the basis of the present impasse, according to the orator.

"The disarmament conference resulted from a conference between Ramsay MacDonald, an avowed pacifist, and President Hoover, during the American visit of the premier several months ago," he said.

"They evidently concluded that the problem could be dealt with simply and easily in technical terms. However, the main problems are political rather than technical."

Negro Gets 12 Months For 'Flim-Flam' Game

Grace Moore, young negro girl, works for white folks out on Candler road. Her employment is satisfactory to Grace, but when a plausible colored man approached her and asked if she wanted a good job she took him at his word and put up a $13 "cash reference." Judge Jesse M. Wood was told Tuesday in criminal court of Atlanta.

The plausible young colored man and the $13 disappeared, and Grace saw neither of them again until she spied James Richardson, 21, negro, talking to a negro woman on the street. City Officers R. L. Burden and L. D. Cody grabbed Richardson at the request of the woman. The negro woman testified in court that Richardson had "propositioned" her about working for somebody. Officer Burden told the court that a check of Richardson's fingerprints revealed that he is wanted in Charleston, S. C., for jail-breaking and "flim-flamming."

After hearing all of the testimony, Judge Wood held Richardson guilty and sentenced him to 12 months on the "rock-pile." In so doing Judge Wood made a few remarks scoring the practice of "flim-flamming" in robbing these hard-working negro girls of their wages.

The teachers' library rapidly is assuming proportions of the most complete of its type in the country, Miss Massengale declared.

Plans for Retaining Parks Are Proposed

Outright purchase or leases which would enable the city later to purchase the sites selected for Chosewood and John A. White parks was recommended in a resolution adopted Tuesday by the Inter-Civic Association, which met to consider the most advantageous disposition to be made of the park sites under criticism of the February grand jury.

In reference to disposal of Ragdale park, the association went on record as favoring abandonment of this project, declaring that "the city has spent little or nothing upon its improvement or purchase."

Recently the grand jury in a bill of presentments took the position that purchases of these parks were illegal because they involved the "time-payment" plan.

Tardy City Taxpayers Are Warned To Pay Up

All well-meaning but tardy taxpayers had better visit the new city hall in the near future.

He allows that taxes are the one thing that the city needs most, and to back up this assertion he has begun preparing fit fits.

During April, Marshal Daniel further allows, his collectors will be forth on their spring round-up. During May the fit fits will be advertised, and, unless delinquent taxpayers come across, he says, the big sale will be held during June.

Freeman, secretary, and Tom Hicks, sergeant-at-arms. Ten were nominated for directors, five to be elected next Tuesday. They were: John Woodside, Cobb, Caldwell, Ewing Humphreys, Dr. DeLoes Hill, Charles Atkinson, Lauren Foreman, Joe Tull, Roland Hall, William Rock and Harold Wynn.

CHURCHMEN PROTEST CHANGE IN PROH LAW

Baptist Commission Sends Telegram To Be Presented Before House Body.

A protest against any change that would weaken the 18th amendment or the Volstead law Tuesday was made in a telegram to be presented to the house judiciary committee by the Commission on Social Service of the Southern Baptist convention, meeting here.

The committee also sent a cablegram to Secretary Stimson advising him of their prayers for the success of the London naval conference. Both messages were signed by Arthur J. Barton as chairman of the committee.

The telegram on the prohibition law, sent to Mrs. Ellis A. Yost, at the Driscoll hotel, in Washington, follows:

"Please present the following statement to the judiciary committee of the house at hearings tomorrow, if hearings are continued:

"The Commission on Social Service of the Southern Baptist convention, in session assembled, representing nearly four million white Baptists of the south, respectfully and earnestly protest against any change that would weaken the 18th amendment or its supporting legislation.

The 18th amendment was submitted and ratified after nearly a century of agitation and education against the curse and blight of the liquor traffic, the greatest social evil ever allowed in any country. The amendment was submitted and ratified in the regular and orderly process of government. Its supporting legislation is not extreme, but altogether reasonable for the accomplishment of the purposes intended to be accomplished by the amendment. It has brought untold blessings to all classes of the American people. That the law is violated is frankly recognized, but it is now more frequently violated than at other times. It is to our regret and shame that we have classes of people who will violate any law and defy constituted authority. In the case of prohibition this same element immediately turns and demands that the law be repealed or modified at their behest and according to their views and wishes. The great battle in America is not whether we shall have prohibition, but whether we can maintain orderly government. In a word, whether government of the people, by the people and for the people will prevail or whether the government and the authority of the people shall bow at the behest of a lawless minority."

RED CROSS INNER-SPRING MATTRESS

Now ANCHOR-LOCKED—For Permanent Comfort

AT A NEW LOW PRICE...

$39.50

WHY THE RED CROSS INNER-SPRING MATTRESS IS THE WORLD'S FINEST

- In the RED CROSS Inner-Spring mattress are hundreds of spring coils. Both ends of each coil are woven through the inside fold of a doubled heavy fabric. This folded fabric is then sewed around the top and bottom loop of the coil. This construction, as illustrated, is the famous ANCHOR-LOCK. The ANCHOR-LOCK holds each coil permanently upright; and prevents one coil from touching another.
- All Inner-Spring Mattresses have layers of carded cotton between the coils and the ticking. This is known as a Bat. In RED CROSS only, this bat is compressed by special machinery. This compressed Bat doubles the life of the RED CROSS by preventing the coils from working through to the ticking.
- Inner-Spring mattresses are so resilient that users often are conscious of the tufts. To avoid this RED CROSS uses an expensive tape tied construction instead of tufts.

TO MATCH THE SMARTEST ROOM THE RED CROSS LAYER FELT $29.50

WHY not select your mattress to match the colorful designs of your walls, or your drapes, or your chintz covers? You can—when you choose the RED CROSS Layer Felt. It is covered in damasks brilliantly alive with gay, tuneful colors. Its smart patterns are in delightful accord with the new tempo in bedroom furnishings. It will add a final note of perfection to the most carefully decorated room. . . . It will add, too, a new sleep comfort to your bed. For beneath its stylish covers are layers and layers of carefully made felt. Only clean southern cotton is selected for it, and even that is washed again and again in machines that force air through it at the speed of a small hurricane. As the last vestige of foreign material is removed each tiny fibre is opened to the fullest extent. This gives a shapely resiliency that the next process—carding and felting—makes a permanent part of every Red CROSS Layer Felt.

Every RED CROSS Mattress is made in a factory as spotless and sanitary as it is possible to maintain. So that you may gain full advantage of this cleanliness, each RED CROSS Mattress—both Inner-Spring and Layer Felt—is cased in an individual, dust-proof carton. Yours will be the first human hands to touch them after they are packed.

To really appreciate either of these fine mattresses, you must see them, test for yourself their resiliency. Notice how buoyant they are, how strikingly modern are their charming coverings. See them at your favorite dealer's. He'll be glad of the opportunity to show them to you . . . just be sure that you ask, by name, for the RED CROSS.

Action Promised This Week On Atlanta Postoffice Site

Announcement Follows Conference Between Senator W. J. Harris and Building Activities Chief.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—(Special.)—Following a conference today with Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. W. J. Harris, of Georgia, announced that he had been given assurance that some definite action will be taken not later than this week looking to the selection of a site for the new federal building authorized for Atlanta.

Senator Harris spent some time at the department in conference with Assistant Secretary Henth, reminding the treasury head of the long delay that has marked consideration of the Atlanta project. He urged the official to reach a decision as early as possible on the site, thus permitting work to go ahead on a number of private building operations which are being held in abeyance pending action by the government.

Mr. Harris informed the Georgia senator that department heads were prepared to do something definite, one way or another, this week, and would either reach an agreement for accepting the Central of Georgia site, which was tentatively selected more than a year ago, or would choose a site elsewhere. In short, Senator Harris was told, the department, in conjunction with postoffice department heads, have reached the point where they are determined to open the way for actual construction work on the Atlanta building.

He promised an announcement on the situation within the next few days. Congress has authorized an expenditure of $2,100,000 on the building of which $450,000 already has been appropriated.

Hits Boy Who Refused To Smile; Bound Over

For striking a negro messenger boy "who said something to him and subsequently refused to smile when ordered to do so," J. E. Dodd, 28, of 814 Greenwood avenue, was bound over to the city criminal court Tuesday night under a $100 bond following a hearing in Judge Murphy Holloway's division of police court.

Dodd, owner of a Houston street motorcycle concern, according to witnesses, struck Edward Mitchell, a negro, of 22 Mitchell place, Saturday afternoon after the latter had engaged him in conversation regarding payment of a debt the negro owed. Mitchell at the hearing was fined $10 and cost for contempt of court because of his failure to appear at the trial originally scheduled for Monday night.

Insurance Coverage On Trucks Reduced

Insurance requirements on small passenger and freight trucks were reduced Tuesday by the Georgia public service commission.

The reductions were made after investigation disclosed that serious accidents were not traceable to the smaller carriers, whose requirements have been as high as $5,000 to $10,000, including both personal and property liability.

Under the new schedule personal liability requirements for cars of five passengers or under were fixed at $2,500. Vehicles which do not operate on fixed routes were given a rate of $1,000, which also was fixed for trucks of one and one-half tons or less.

Eielson's Memory Honored in Senate

WASHINGTON, March 25.—(AP)—A brief tribute to Carl Ben Eielson, arctic explorer who lost his life in an attempt to rescue passengers on an ice-bound ship, was paid in the senate today by Senator Nye, republican, North Dakota.

Nye read a letter he had received from Sir Hubert Wilkins, another explorer, who described Eielson as one of the great pioneers of arctic flying. He urged also that the senate adopt as soon as possible his resolution calling for the naming of a mountain peak in Alaska for the explorer.

JESUIT ORDER ACCEPTS BEQUEST COMPROMISE

Wrangle Over Will of Canadian Woman Is Settled.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., March 25.—(AP)—A compromise whereby the Order of Jesuits accepted all real estate and Mrs. R. L. Garrett, of Wembley, Alberta, Canada, receives all personal property or approximately half of the $250,000 estate of her mother, the late Mrs. Bessie M. Sanford, was reached in Madison county superior court today. Judgment was signed by Judge Cameron F. Macrae of Asheville.

Mrs. Sanford was found dead in the bathroom at the home of friends in Jacksonville, Fla., last January. She left a will bequeathing all of her estate, with exception of a $37,000 trust fund, for her only daughter, to the Order of Jesuits which maintains an organization in Madison county. Mrs. Garrett, through counsel, filed a protest and the compromise grew out of this action.

Under the agreement, the Order of Jesuits receives the valuable mountain hotel site, the Safford home, 192 acres of mountain land, several valuable lots in Hot Springs. All of the property is located in or near that town.

Mrs. Garrett is to receive all jewelry, securities, diamonds, and other jewelry and the magnificent furnishings of the home.

The collection of jewelry includes a number of historic and valuable gems.

The furnishings of the home, which itself has quite a history, are largely the contents of a French chateau, said to have been formerly owned by a Parisian nobleman. Antique furniture, glass, silver, china, rare portraits and books are among the contents. The greater part of the collection is to be sold.

Louisianan Guilty Of Peonage Charges

NEW ORLEANS, March 25.—(AP)—Judge Wayne G. Borah in federal court here sentenced James E. Pigott, a farmer owner of Bogalusa, to 18 months in the Atlanta penitentiary on his plea of guilty to the charge of holding negro farm hands in peonage.

Pigott pleaded guilty to all the counts against him except that charging that he beat his laborers with chains. He admitted that he chained a runaway farm hand to a tree, but said that he worked his help "just the same as any one in this country does."

He said he would advance money to negro helpers and collect later from their wages. When they would run away he would get sheriffs to return them to him instead of sending them to jail.

Statue Approved.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—(AP)—The senate today adopted a resolution by Senator Heflin, democrat, authorizing erection of a $50,000 monument to Major General William Crawford Gorgas, late surgeon general of the army, in the capital. It now goes to the house.

Steamer Europa Establishes New Trans-Atlantic Record

BREAKS SISTER SHIP'S RECORD BY 18 MINUTES

NEW YORK, March 25.—(AP)—The new speed mistress of the seas—the North German Lloyd liner Europa—sailed today with a new trans-Atlantic record for her maiden voyage from Cherbourg breakwater to Ambrose lightship, just off the entrance of the lower bay.

Cutting through a light mist and drizzle the Europa passed the lightship at 5:54 a. m., to establish a record of four days, 17 hours and six minutes for the run across the Atlantic.

The record was set on Thursday at 12:48 p. m. (E. S. T.). Thursday. This lowered by 18 minutes the old record established by the Europa's sister-ship, the Bremen, last October and cut 36 minutes under the time made by the Bremen in her maiden voyage last July.

The Europa averaged a speed of 27.9 knots in the 3,157 miles she traveled from Cherbourg breakwater to Ambrose light—a course that was seven miles shorter than the route taken by the Bremen in her record-breaking October run.

Engines Quiet.

As the Europa swept by the Ambrose light the electric fans making the four trans-Atlantic speed runs—passengers received a quieting of the throbbing turbines that had pushed the giant liner through a wind-swept sea at record speed.

The slight quivering that was noticeable despite the Europa's specially designed propellers, ceased and her huge bulk cut more slowly through the gathering mist to anchor at quarantine.

Here the Europa waited patiently until the customs and United States public health officials put out from Manhattan in the cutter Baritan that sent up a shrieking salute as she broke through the blanket of fog and rain.

Her welcoming party, headed by the German ambassador, Baron F. W. Von Prittwitz under Gaffrath, already knew of the Europa's new record.

The Europa's deep-throated siren pierced the gray mist in answer as the ship's searchlight scanned the sea and a score of cameras clicked.

Commander Greeted.

Once aboard, Baron Von Prittwitz and Dr. Karl von Lewinski, German consul general, went immediately to the chart room to greet the new speed queen's commander, Commodore Nicolaus Johnsen, the 61-year-old salt who rose from cabin boy to pace the bridge of the world's fastest liner.

Both Commodore Johnsen and Ambassador Von Prittwitz spoke in German through a portable microphone set in the Europa's chart room by the National Broadcasting Company.

The commodore, a short, stocky, be-whiskered German with a pleasant twinkle in his eyes, was conservative in his praise for his new command.

"The trip was successful," he said, "and in every respect the engines functioned perfectly. The Europa came up to our expectations."

The broadcasting program was transmitted to Germany by short waves and Baron Von Prittwitz sent his felicitations to the German people.

Resembles Bremen.

The Europa closely resembles the Bremen in construction and appearance, the two being built under the same broad specifications for size and speed. However, they are the products of different designers and different shipbuilders.

Both are built low to eliminate wind resistance, but the Europa, the construction of which was delayed by two fires, contains a number of changes over the Bremen designed to make her speedier and more comfortable.

Richly Clothed Body Of Slain Girl Found

EUREKA, Cal., March 25.—(AP)—Discovery of the body of a red-haired young woman, who had been shot through the head and left near a highway 60 miles north of here, presented a mystery today.

Expensively clad, and wrapped in a fur coat, the woman apparently had been dead six or eight weeks. All marks that might be useful in identifying the body had been removed from the clothing.

Mrs. Edith Rosenberger, owner of a general store at Klamath, nearby, told Sheriff John W. Runner that several weeks ago a man dashed into her place and asked if she had seen "a beautiful red-haired woman around here anywhere."

Wales Said Planning Journey to America

SANTA ROSA, Cal., March 25.—(AP)—W. M. Carruthers, Sonoma county rancher, said here today he has been informed that the Prince of Wales expected to visit his ranch in western Canada and that the heir to the British throne probably would visit central California during August.

Advices from London said the royal household knew nothing of a contemplated visit by Wales to the United States.

Statue Approved.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—(AP)—The senate today adopted a resolution by Senator Heflin, democrat, authorizing erection of a $50,000 monument to Major General William Crawford Gorgas, late surgeon general of the army, in the capital. It now goes to the house.

PARENTAL EDUCATION CONFERENCE CALLED

Meeting Is Sponsored by Dr. W. A. Sutton, City School Leader.

For the purpose of stimulating interest in parental education during the ensuing two years, Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of schools, Tuesday addressed a letter to officers and members of local Parent-Teachers Association organizations inviting them to attend a meeting to be held at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning in the auditorium of Commercial High school.

"The object of this meeting," the letter states, "is to promote parental education and to provide ways and means of training a group of individuals who will be able to assist in organizing study groups, and to prepare for a great year of parental education in 1930-31."

"I desire the co-operation of the Parent-Teachers Association and of all parents regardless of whether they have become affiliated with the Parent-Teachers Association or not. We sincerely trust that we will be able through this means to bring them into the Parent-Teachers Association."

The entire movement, the superintendent explained, "is one in which we desire the co-operation of every parent, and earnestly desire the endorsement and co-operation of the Parent-Teachers Association."

We are anxious to have this work a part of that great organization which has meant so much to the development of education.

Among those who will speak at the meeting next Tuesday will be Mrs. Clifford Walker and Dr. N. R. H. Moor, all of whom are expected to discuss the problems of parental education.

Swimming Pool.

Among the features is the swimming pool, about 20 to 35 feet, which is strikingly decorated with bright colored mosaics along the walls of the room. Other features are her restaurant, a separate library for each class and a shooting gallery that presents the effect of a forest with moving game.

An unusual feature is that the name of the ship can be shown in electric lights on both sides over the sun-deck. The letters are of glass, six feet high.

The commander is Captain Nicolaus Johnsen, commodore of the Lloyd fleet. He has been in the service of the company for more than 30 years and until recently commanded the Columbus. He is 61 years old and went to sea at the age of 16.

Log.

Following is the log of the Europa on her record trip:

Aged Man and Wife Die in Suicide Pact

BALTIMORE, March 25.—(AP)—An aged couple, in ill health and near poverty, today ended their lives, 32 years of which they had spent together, because one could not live without the other.

Police found the bodies of the couple, Harry B. Applewhite, 75, and his wife, Laura, 70, lying in their bed with their throats slashed. Two old razors, the instruments of their double suicide pact, were found lying by their bodies.

On a table beside the bed was a note, telling of their fight against ill health and straitened circumstances. It was written by Mrs. Applewhite, and signed by her and her husband, though neither said she had done all of the writing.

Roumanian Prince's Return Championed

BUCHAREST, Rumania, March 25.—(UN)—A declaration in favor of the return of former Crown Prince Carol to Rumania went unheeded at the people's party congress here Monday.

The suggestion was made by a speaker after General Averescu, leader of the party, had launched a bitter attack against Premier Kligas Maniu and the regency. Averescu did not disapprove the utterance.

Carol is still in Paris, where he wants to pursue a love affair which he preferred to the throne. The regency is acting for his son, the boy King Michael. There have been numerous "Carolists" demonstrations, but the government has frowned on them.

When informed of today's developments, Maniu announced that all members of the people's party endorsing the demand for Carol's return would be prosecuted in court.

Averescu said the regency and the government stood together, only because the opposition critics were unable to agree. He said that in the future he would have nothing to do with the regency. The executive committee of the liberal party will meet tomorrow to consider the possibility of uniting with the people's party in driving Maniu and his peasant colleagues from power, he added.

Bogus $20 Bills Said Moving South

WINCHESTER, Va., March 25.—(AP)—With bogus $20 Richmond Federal Reserve bank notes continuing to turn up today in banks and merchants' cash drawers in many towns between Hagerstown, Md., and Staunton, Va., department of justice agents said they believed the counterfeiters were moving south.

The notes, officers said, were of a bluish color, and greasy, due to a paraffine color process.

GOVERNOR'S NEPHEW KILLED IN HONDURAS

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 25.—(AP)—Governor Henry H. Horton advised a cablegram today advising that his nephew, John Whitte Phillips, 30, had died of a fractured skull at Toluca, Honduras, where he was employed by the United Fruit Company. The message did not say how he received the injury.

200 Georgia Dairymen Meet And Organize Confederation

Purpose of New Body Is To Promote the Development of the Industry in State.

Two hundred Georgia dairymen gathered Tuesday at the state capital and formed the Georgia Dairymen's Confederation, an organization devoted to the interest of producers and distributors of milk and butter. Its purpose, as outlined in the constitution adopted, is to promote the development of the industry in the state; to establish and maintain a system of marketing milk and cream that will "secure for the members of this organization a fair market value for their products," and to take an active part in shaping all future legislation, both state and municipal.

Later, it was said, a direct contact with the federal farm board might be made.

A membership of 1,000 within three weeks is confidently expected by leaders as the result of a series of organization meetings to be held in milk producing counties.

Thursday at Culloden.

Thursday such a meeting will be held at Culloden; Friday afternoon at Madison; Friday night at Monticello; and Saturday afternoon at Covington.

The meeting Tuesday was strictly a dairymen's meeting. Dr. Peter F. Bahnsen, of the dairy division, department of agriculture; Commissioner of Agriculture Eugene Talmadge, and State Veterinarian J. M. Sutton, were present, but took little part in the discussion. A clause in the constitution adopted provides that no state, county or city official may be an active member of the organization, but instead shall be honorary members only.

A membership fee of $5 per year was decided upon, and a resolution was adopted memorializing the next legislature to act favorably upon the department of agriculture bill proposing stricter regulation of powdered milk and butter substitutes in this state.

Mallet Named President.

G. E. Mallet, Jackson, was elected president of the organization, and E. C. Kelly, of Monticello, was chosen secretary and treasurer. Other officers elected were: U. S. Fuller, Monroe, first vice president; H. Magruder, Green, second vice president; Fred L. White, Green, director, three-year term; Charles Sockwell, Newton, director, two-year term, and L. O. Benton, Jasper, one-year term.

County representatives chosen through whom work of the organization will be carried on at present were:

J. D. John, Butts; L. O. Benton, Jasper; A. L. Paulk, Jasper; A. C. Belcher, Newton; A. C. Zachary, Morgan; W. A. Biggers, Rockdale; M. B. Kilgore, Clayton; Columbus Roberts, Muscogee; T. W. VALUABLE COLLECTION OF STONES DISPLAYED

Many outstanding specimens of semi-precious stones collected by William Pitts, formerly of Atlanta but now a resident of Sunnyvale, Cal., who is here visiting his brother, Thomas H. Pitts, are on display in the show windows of Myron E. Freeman & Brother, jewelers, 103 Peachtree street.

Collecting these stones has been a hobby with Mr. Pitts for many years. He has obtained them from all over the world, but mostly they came from the western part of the United States. In the collection are some outstanding specimens of black opals, fire opals and some very interesting examples of opalized wood. Other stones in the collection include malachite, azurite, colored quartz and turquoise.

Mr. Pitts is considered an authority on the subject of semi-precious stones, and is so regarded throughout the world. He has made many valuable contributions to the Smithsonian institution, the Field Museum and similar institutions in other countries.

The exhibit will be on display for about another week. It is being shown here, Mr. Pitts says, purely as a matter of artistic interest, and none of the stones is for sale.

Southwest Georgia Librarians To Meet

A meeting of librarians of 20 cities and towns of southwestern Georgia will be held at Albany Friday, it was announced Tuesday by Miss Beverly Wheatcroft, secretary of the Georgia library association.

Miss Wheatcroft and Miss Elizabeth Havennotte, president of the Georgia Library Association, will conduct the discussions at the meeting, which will include city, county and country library problems.

The Georgia Library Association does not meet this year. It was said its policy being one of biennial meetings. Miss Wheatcroft will start an inspection tour of the state following the meeting.

Delegates to the Albany meeting will be luncheon guests of the Albany Woman's Club.

Mate a Drug Addict, Divorce Suit Charges

Mrs. Jesse V. Wallace McCoy Tuesday filed a divorce petition in Fulton superior court and charged that Leroy Carl McCoy, whom she married in 1919 or 1920, was a dope addict and used narcotics upon her to obtain her consent to marry him.

McCoy is now serving his third sentence in the Atlanta federal penitentiary since they separated some 10 or 15 days after the wedding ceremony, the plaintiff alleges. The petitioner alleges that McCoy is an inmate victim of McCoy, and asks for annulment of the marriage on the ground of fraudulent and undue influence. Another count of the petition asks for a divorce, and charges that the defendant was and is a dangerous character, and that the plaintiff is in fear of his life. The petition was filed by Attorney H. W. McLarty.

Child Health Day Planned for City

Observance by Atlanta schools of May 1 as Child Health Day by dental and physical examination of every child in the city's schools is urged by Willis A. Sutton, city school superintendent, in a circular letter addressed Tuesday to all heads of Parent-Teachers Association groups here.

"The one effort that I hope we will make in Atlanta for the celebration of May Day," Dr. Sutton says, "is that by May Day we shall have received our medical and health certificates for every child in the school system." Steps also should be taken, the superintendent added, to see that every child who is to enter kindergarten in September or in February has had a thorough examination made the last days of April or the first days of May.

Georgia Is Seventh In 1929 Hog Contest

With 40 litters of hogs weighing more than a ton at the age of six months, Georgia finished seventh in the 1929 national hog-growing contest, Dr. C. D. Lowe, of the extension animal husbandry of the United States department of agriculture in Washington, has announced. Ohio was first, with 98, thus displacing Pennsylvania, which won the contest in 1927 and 1928; Tennessee, with 75, was second; Indiana, with 63, third; Minnesota, 61, fourth, and Pennsylvania, with 59, fifth.

Pennsylvania reported the heaviest single litter, however, a litter of 17 pigs weighing 3,987 pounds at the age of six months.

Twenty-five states reported to the agriculture department. The average weight of Georgia's hogs per litter was 2,097. The heaviest single litter from this state, 11 hogs, weighed 3,399 pounds.

Thomas Law 'Boomed' For Rotary Governor

A dispatch from Savannah Tuesday said the Morning News of that city had learned that Thomas C. Law, of Atlanta, for many years an outstanding Rotarian in Georgia, was being "boomed" for the governorship of the 98th Rotary district.

Mr. Law said here Tuesday afternoon that he "understood some of his friends were seeking the post for him," but added that he was not making an avowed effort to obtain the nomination which is to be made at the district convention of Georgia Rotarians at Savannah April 19 and 20.

The dispatch declared it is "generally conceded that Mr. Law will have a walkover for the place." The nomination to be made at Savannah must be submitted to the convention of Rotary International in Chicago this summer for approval.

SUPERVISOR OF NURSES QUITS MACON HOSPITAL

Mrs. J. K. Pittman Resigns in Protesting Board's Economy Plan.

MACON, Ga., March 25.—(AP)—A stormy session of the board of commissioners of the Macon hospital today terminated in the resignation of Mrs. J. K. Pittman, director of nursing, the reinstatement of Miss Alma Carter, record clerk, and general readjustment of the staff organization to fit a closely-tailored budget.

Disruption of the hospital staff was imminent Monday night, when the decision of the board of commissioners to cut expenses by dismissing a number of employees, including the record clerk and the night supervisor of nurses, became known. The meeting was called to adjust the difficulties between the board and the nursing staff, but the board's decision to cut expenses by dismissing a number of employees, including the record clerk and the night supervisor of nurses, became known.

As a result of the meeting, the record clerk, whose services are required by the American Hospital Association of its accredited members, was reinstated. Her dismissal was voted as part of the close-cut program at a meeting of the commission Tuesday.

Russell Elliott, house repairman; W. H. Bagwell, laboratory expert; Miss Arta Robles, supervisor; Miss Lucile Jones, supervisor, and Miss Grace Fuller, supervisor, will be dropped at the expiration of their notices, April 1.

The commission reconsidered its decision, made Saturday, to dismiss the night supervisor. The employment of a graduate nurse night supervisor is a requisite of accredited nursing training schools.

Mrs. Pittman telegraphed Miss Jane Van De Vrede, chairman of the state board of examiners of nurses, urging her to come to Macon with the possibility of closing the training school.

Mrs. Betty Ricks Dent, senior supervisor of nurses, and formerly night supervisor, was named to act as superintendent of nurses until the appointment of Mrs. Pittman's successor. Mrs. Pittman's resignation is effective immediately. A decision to reduce the size of the hospital training school was reached.

Mrs. Pittman, Dr. R. W. Richardson, superintendent of the hospital; Dr. A. M. Phillips, house physician; Mrs. Dent and Mrs. F. H. Simonton, J. B. Gofford, Raymond Sauer and C. K. McLaughlin, internes, were called before the commission for questioning.

In reply to questions regarding the resignations of the internes, the commission was told the physicians had no intentions of resigning unless the hospital rating is lowered by the state board. Whether the hospital will be reduced by the absence of a pathologist was problematical.

'JUNKING' OF MILLEN RAILROAD PROTESTED

VALDOSTA, Ga., March 25.—Three phases of the Georgia and Florida railroad situation are at this time claiming a full share of Valdosta interest.

The receivership and its outcome, the effect of the receivers on the railroad, and the movement of the Piedmont and Northern railroad in South Carolina and North Carolina to build some connecting links in defiance of a decision of the interstate commerce commission are the three angles being watched.

Millen and the surrounding territory objects strenuously to junking the Millen branch, while receivers insist that it does not pay operating expenses and, therefore, should be abandoned. Two mass meetings of protest have been held in Millen and efforts made to induce the receivers to abandon the idea of junking the road. It is understood that the road will not consent to abandon its plan unless it is guaranteed an increase of business sufficient to pay for the operation.

Recently the interstate commerce commission declined to grant the Piedmont and Northern permission to build two five-mile links which would weld the road and the G. & F. into a through trunk line to the east. According to information received here, the P. & N. is going ahead with the building in spite of the decision, and the result of this movement is being watched with interest. The claims are made that unless these links are built and the through line established, there is little for the G. & F. to hope for in the way of development.

Angered by Snub, Nebraskan Seeks Father in Georgia

GREENVILLE, Ga., March 25.—(AP)—A snub that gave birth to a desire for membership in the Daughters of the American Revolution caused Mrs. Bettie Leona Gresham Dempster, of Crawford, Neb., to claim Albert Gresham, 68-year-old printer, as her father.

Developments arising from investigation of family records here, however, indicate that she must continue her search elsewhere.

In the first place, Gresham declares he never heard of the 32-year-old Nebraskan woman before, and that he has no other children but a daughter now in college and a son in the local high school. Gresham said the woman wrote him that her husband's sister had snubbed her because of her lack of knowledge of her parents, and that she wanted to become a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Gresham then invited her to come to Greenville to prove the relationship.

Meanwhile she also wrote Hardy Collier, chief of police, that the war department had advised her a family of Greshams lived, or had once resided, in Greenville, Ga., and asked his help.

Collier sent her a history of the Gresham family, together with a picture of Albert Gresham for identification. The photograph has just been returned to him. Collier said today with a letter from the woman denying that it was the picture of her father. The police chief said he had advised her then that other families by the name of Gresham resided in various parts of Georgia, but he did not know whether or not she still intended coming here.

In her letter to Gresham Mrs. Dempster told him her father's name was Albert Gresham, and that many years ago he had left her and a small brother with an aged couple in Kansas City, who had reared and educated them. Collier said Gresham was in the Spanish-American War at the time the woman says she and her brother were left in Kansas City.

Georgia's 'Political Ills' Scored by Student Speakers

ATHENS, Ga., March 25.—(AP)—Students at the university exercises of the Demosthenian and Phi Kappa literary societies of the University of Georgia, Tuesday analyzed what they termed Georgia's political ills and deplored "the backward state of its university."

Emanuel Javetz, of Savannah, speaking as the representative of the Demosthenian Society, which was founded in 1803, asserted "Georgia hasn't produced a political leader of first rate importance since the turn of the century."

His subject was "The Possible Leadership in the State of Georgia."

Javetz said the legislature spends "Sixty days in petty political bargaining" while the real business lies on the table. "Something should be done to end the reign of these demagogues," he said.

Lack of support given the university was decried by Frank Constancy, of Atlanta, representing the Phi Kappa Society which was founded in 1820.

Constancy said the smaller schools of the university system were financed with funds which should go to the university itself. He asserted the legislators appropriated money for the smaller units of the university system to assure the re-election of the legislators in their districts.

Dr. S. V. Sanford, dean of the university, presided. He introduced the alternates, who in turn introduced the speakers of their respective societies. These alternates were Kankakee Anderson, Rockmart, for Demosthenian and Guerry Harris, Valdosta, for Phi Kappa. Dr. Sanford expressed an idea at the conclusion of the exercises that he was proud of the speakers and believed, since they were members of the senior class and would graduate in June, that the state should be benefited by such a type of young men taking part in the affairs of the state.

Dr. Sanford also explained to the audience that standards of entrance to the university were being gradually raised.

The anniversary exercise is one of the outstanding events in the school year and classes for the day were suspended.

PLAN NEAR COMPLETION FOR NEW WAREHOUSE

VALDOSTA, Ga., March 25.—The 1930 tobacco warehouse line-up is beginning to take definite shape on the Valdosta cotton market, as plans are being completed for the new Savannah avenue warehouse to be erected on Savannah avenue, Lee street and Crane avenue.

The new warehouse, which will be operated by Tom Geary, Jr., of Danville, Va., and Leslie Alphin, a North Carolina warehouseman, will have 50,000 square feet of floor space. The building, according to the plans, will be 225 by 225 feet. Contractors are estimating on the construction work now, and it is likely to be either brick and tile or brick, with steel beams and trusses. The property is located within the fire zone, and cannot have wooden beams and trusses, and the walls must be of fire resisting materials also.

The creation of this warehouse gives the Valdosta market three large warehouses in the downtown section of the city, within a block of each other. There are three other warehouses in the western part of the city, the Alliance, the Planters and the Farmers. It appears settled now that the Planters and Farmers will remain closed, while the Alliance will be operated as an overflow house. The last three places, being so remote from the tobacco center, they have been regarded as rather impractical.

The new building will very materially add to the selling space for tobacco and with each warehouse in the hands of live warehousemen the prediction is made that sales in this city for 1930 will easily run around 12,000,000 pounds as against 8,537,808 pounds for last year. Representatives of all the warehouses are now busy in the territory assisting the farmers with planting and getting business for the coming season.

Dr. Robert Ulich, professor in the College of Technology at Dresden, Dr. Ulich will deliver two lectures, one entitled, "The Economic Changes in Post War Germany and Their Influence on German Intellectual Life," and second, "The German Youth Movement and Its Relation to Economics and Politics."

A tentative promise to take part in the program has been received from Professor Paul Monroe, of Columbia University. He recently spent some time in Russia and will lecture on "The Culture Program of the Soviets."

In that part of the program devoted to state and local affairs, the larger part of the time will be given to a detailed study of the constitution of Georgia with a view to pointing out its defects. CONTEST ON RITCHIE REPORT IS LOOMING

One of the bitterest fights in the history of Atlanta's school system looms with the approaching meeting Thursday of the board of education to consider adoption or rejection of the report of a special committee which investigated grand jury criticism of Raymond R. Ritchie, assistant superintendent of schools in charge of business affairs.

The dawn of the imminent conflict finds sides sharply drawn and indications Tuesday night were that regardless of the possibility that the board may accept the committee's lengthy report, the opposition to retention of Ritchie as an official of the local system will carry on a fight that will be publicly waged.

To date the issue is definitely shaped as follows:

Ritchie, charged by a recent grand jury with "wanton extravagance" and "arrogant, capricious methods," in effect was exonerated when the committee of five appointed by the board of education to investigate these charges adopted an oral report several hours later, which was read by Alderman E. A. Gilliam, of the twelfth ward, was the author. The vote on this report was four for adoption and one against—W. H. Spratt, school commissioner from the ninth ward, dissenting and announcing his intention to file a "minority" report.

Board Meets Thursday.
The critical official's official exonerations will depend upon the action of the entire board of education, which has been called to meet in special session Thursday. Indications are that a majority of members will vote for adoption of the special committee's report, but opponents of Ritchie declare they will carry their fight to court him to the last ditch.

Following publication of the committee's action in adopting the report vindicating Ritchie, his opponents have charged that the report itself contained an irregularity in virtue of the manner of its formulation, having been written before all testimony before the committee was completed. They alleged that the committee had "whitewashed" the accused official regardless of testimony by witnesses before it; that the report was a "colossal hoax"; that the fact that it was written before the final meeting of the committee had been held was conclusive proof that the committee did not intend to give a fair verdict.

If opposition to adoption of the report fails before the regular board of education Thursday, opponents declared, the controversy will be carried directly to the public at large, and in this connection plans have been formulated for a series of indignation meetings to be held in public schools in all sections of the city as a protest to continuance in power of the criticized business head.

Ritchie's Opponents.
Chief among those opposed to retention of Ritchie are William C. Slate, of the second ward; E. R. Sweat, of the tenth; Ivan Cochran, of the thirteenth, and W. H. Spratt, of the ninth.

Mr. Slate Tuesday night, in a statement to The Constitution, declared that the people of Atlanta are sick and tired of Ritchie and his methods, and reiterated his intention of bringing about his removal from office.

"Ritchie's methods," Mr. Slate declared, "have brought about a deplorable condition in the Atlanta public school system. I believe that the only remedy to our educational ailments lies unequivocally in the removal of this man, who has literally upset the entire system since he came in office. We are going to see this fight through—even if we have to take it before every parent in every school district in Atlanta."

Termed the report of the committee a "colossal hoax," Mr. Sweat declared that Ritchie "knows full well that the public doesn't want him any longer."

Termed "Colossal Hoax."
"It was the most colossal hoax ever perpetrated upon the Atlanta people," he asserted. "Just imagine a committee of intelligent men interviewing a few witnesses and then coming out with the statement that the findings of the grand jury were unfounded. It is the most preposterous proceeding I have ever heard of. The report itself was written before the last meeting of the committee—showing conclusively that the committee did not intend to give a fair verdict. Mr. Ritchie knows full well that the people of Atlanta do not want him any longer. He is fully aware that the public as well as the grand jury is entirely cognizant of his inefficiency. And yet he persists in holding the office even after the president of the board of education has requested his resignation."

read before the conference. Mr. Claiborne expressed a belief that many banks carry too great an investment in bonds. The effect, he said, is that they are unable to liquidate them when they are in need of ready money.

"All mistakes are made when 'easy' money prevails," he said. J. E. Masser, president of the First National Bank of Marietta, considered the problem of building and maintaining secondary reserves. A paper on "Commercial Paper, Bankers' Acceptances, and Call Loans," was read by E. H. Heller, of the Citizens' Union National Bank, of Louisville, Ky.

The papers were discussed by Clyde Hendricks, of Decatur, Ala.; Walter T. Lane, vice president of the Citizens & Southern Company, of Atlanta, and K. W. Berry, of Birmingham, Ala.

The sessions of the conference are presided over by Robert F. Maddox, chairman of the executive committee of the First National Bank.

Legislation Urged.
In the morning session Tuesday L. Holleman, president of the Southern Mortgage Company, of Atlanta, took the position that neither the farmers nor the lands of Georgia are responsible for the agricultural depression in the state. The hope for better conditions lies in higher prices for farm products, he declared, and the hope for an adjustment of prices that will give agriculture parity with industry, lies in legislation by congress, as illustrated in the agricultural marketing act and the federal farm board set up under it, and as foreshadowed by bills now pending.

Several other addresses pertaining to banking were made in the morning and afternoon. They were: "Objectives of the Conference," H. N. Stronck, chairman H. N. Stronck Company, Inc., Chicago. General Thomsen, Loan Administration Policies.

LABOR CHIEFS HIT
WARD RULE SYSTEM

the time the change was made 35 years ago from the system being advocated to the present plan, and that he felt at that time the committee was making a mistake.

Mr. Freeman, a former council member from the tenth ward, and one of the outstanding civic leaders in that section of Atlanta, voiced his approval of the proposal. He declared that such a plan would make councilmanic positions more attractive to business men, and that, in his opinion, a higher type of man would offer.

"I covered The Constitution story of the change from the proposed system when the executive committee voted for the present system 35 years ago," Mr. Newell said. "At that time, I felt ward elections were a mistake, and were restricting the right of universal suffrage on all the representatives."

"Ward rule of Atlanta politics must go. The people of Atlanta feel that the proposed change is the best and most effective way to accomplish this. I am wholeheartedly in favor of the plan."

"A high type of candidate will enter the field under the proposed plan, and Atlanta taxpayers and citizens will be the beneficiaries," Mr. Freeman said. "For many years, I have felt that all the voters should participate in selection of council members."

"This would do much to abolish ward political machines, and place the Atlanta government on a firm business like basis."

Resolutions Adopted.
The resolutions adopted by the board of executives of the Atlanta Inter-Civic Association are as follows: "Be it resolved, that it is the sense of this body that the city of Atlanta should protect its interests in the recently acquired city parks now known as John A. White and Chosewood parks either by lease with option to buy or by direct purchase. That this resolution is in no sense intended as an approval of the original contracts, and is passed solely because of the very large expenditures of labor and money already made upon these parks by the city of Atlanta."

"That in view of the fact that the city of Atlanta has spent little or nothing upon the purchase and improvement of Ragsdale park, that purchase is not intended to be included within the terms or scope of this resolution."

"Be it further resolved, that this body favors the nomination and election of members of council by the city at large as in the case of aldermen and as provided by the law of Georgia."

"That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes and a copy sent to the mayor of the city of Atlanta and to each of the daily papers."

time to try both the White and Price cases." The solicitor-general indicated, however, that he would wait on York's recovery no longer than today, further indicating that should York continue ill he would call the Price case to trial this morning.

Expected in Court Today.
Defense Counsel Sims said that unless York's illness took a turn for the worse he likely would be able to come to court this morning.

"The public may rest assured that no time will be lost in any of these cases," Mr. Boykin said. "If it becomes apparent that it will be physically impossible to try the White case tomorrow we have the other ready or can again summon the grand jury into session and get in some work on the investigation which is by no means near conclusion."

York, who was convicted and sentenced to three years on the chain gang last Saturday and who Monday submitted his resignation as a councilman, together with White, was indicted for bribery while the city purchasing agent and the two also are under indictment jointly, being accused of defrauding the city in the purchase of various supplies. The indictments together with almost a score of others were returned by the grand jury after an investigation, lasting five months, into the conduct of the municipal government, the investigation was halted temporarily to permit the prosecuting staff to give its attention to the cases in court.

Should White be placed on trial this morning, as is planned, he will face a jury on the same indictment upon which York was convicted, it containing six counts and charging White with giving to York the bribes last week's jury convicted the councilman of receiving.

York's Physician Appears.
The postponement until today was granted by Judge Humphries after Dr. L. P. Baker, York's physician, appeared and informed the court that he deemed the councilman too ill to attempt a journey to the courtroom.

"It is not my desire to embarrass the court nor to bring about a delay in any trial," Dr. Baker said. "I have been treating Mr. York for 14 years and he is a sicker man today than at any time since I first met him. His heart is weakened and his entire system is in such a state that I fear a removal from his home would be harmful."

"Do you think Mr. York could be placed in a motor car and brought here tomorrow if Mr. White's lawyer decides his testimony is necessary to the defense?" Judge Humphries asked Dr. Baker.

"I don't know, your honor," Dr. Baker said. "I have been trying to build him up and maybe the next 24 hours will bring some improvement."

With this statement Judge Humphries ordered the postponement.

Lawyer Lauds Price.
After court had recessed, Mr. Hollingsworth issued the following statement on behalf of Purchasing Agent Price:

"Having made a careful study of Mr. Price's case, and having heard the evidence in the York case, I am convinced that the city of Atlanta has every reason to be proud of Price's service as city purchasing agent."

"I do not believe there is a more efficient, painstaking, trustworthy, courteous officer in the city hall than Bill Price, and while the grand jury which found the bill were splendid, representative citizens, they only had one side of the situation before them."

"When Mr. Price explains the method of handling supplies for the city's needs, no one will have cause for any suspicion of graft to be charged against him."

"Mr. Price is a 'simon pure' Georgia product, born and reared in the old Georgia red hills, and has worked his way to his present position."

"All he asks is for his friends, and the public, to withhold judgment until he makes full denial and explanation of every charge lodged against him."

"I am thoroughly convinced of his innocence and have refrained from trying his case in the newspapers. I give this statement in order that his friends and the public may have the benefit of my investigation as his counsel."

Milliken for Ousting York.

Voluntary relinquishment by Harry York of his seat in council as member of that body from the sixth ward will meet with opposition when the matter comes up for action, it was announced Tuesday by Alderman G. Everett Milliken, of the tenth ward, who declared he would insist upon official ousting of the convicted councilman.

A different view was expressed by Alvin Richards, alderman from the newly-created thirteenth ward, who declared that in his opinion the question of whether or not York be retained as councilman had been definitely settled when the latter tendered his resignation Monday evening. Mr. Richards asserted he could see no reason for a protracted argument over a question which, in his mind, already had been decided by virtue of York's own resignation.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—(AP)—The sender of insufficiently addressed mail would be charged a fee of five cents, in addition to regular postage, for directory service by the postoffice department under a measure introduced today by Representative Kelly, republican, Pennsylvania, a member of the postoffice committee.

The measure provided, however, that delivery of the mail should not be delayed pending collection of the charge.

Expert Predicts Increase in Volt Carrying Power

Prediction that high power transmission lines in the future may be raised above the maximum carrying power of 220,000 volts in use today was made Tuesday night at a joint banquet of the Atlanta chapters of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and the Atlanta Association of Mechanical Engineers.

The speaker making the prophecy was Professor Harold B. Smith, dean of electrical engineering of the Worcester, Mass., Polytechnic Institute and president of the A. I. E. E.

Attending the banquet, held at the Atlanta Athletic Club, was Professor W. S. Rodman, professor of electrical engineering at the University of Virginia and vice president of the A. I. E. E. for the southern district. Georgia Tech branches of both societies were also present.

DETROIT, Mich., March 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Rowe March and her husband, who approved her three weeks' sojourn with another man to determine which she wanted, returned to their home this morning and issued a brief statement to the effect that they had nothing to say for publication, and desired only to be left to work out their own future.

The husband, Benjamin March, curator of Asiatic art at the Detroit Institute of Arts, met his wife Sunday on her return from Miami, Fla., and immediately whisked her out of town. Shortly after Mrs. March left Miami, the other man, Thomas A. Newton, Jr., son of a wealthy Detroit packer, shot and killed himself in a Miami Beach hotel.

At the door of their home here the couple were greeted by a group of newspapermen and photographers. They posed for the cameras, and then to the reporters passed out typewritten slips of paper, carrying the signatures of both. The statement read: "Neither Mrs. March nor myself has anything to say for publication. We desire to be allowed to continue our life together."

Cubs Face Stern Opposition To Retain Permanent in National Loop

PHILS, ROBINS TO WAGE FIGHT FOR TOP BERTHS

Howley Has Reds Hustling; Close Race Is Expected.

By Brian Bell.

Associated Press Sports Editor.

The champion Chicago Cubs, rated better than they were at this time a year ago, are being generally favored to again show the way in the National league, but the competition may be made of sterner stuff.

Strengthening of clubs in the second division in 1929 suggests that the senior circuit should have a great battle through the long summer stretch leading to baseball fame and fortune in the autumn.

The always dangerous Phillies, the hustling Reds of Cincinnati and the rejuvenated Robins of Brooklyn, with doses of peace hovering about their bench, should make the fight for places in the first four a sanguinary struggle.

SEVEN HAVE CHANCE.

With early spring estimates subject to revision later on, seven clubs in the National league seem to have a chance to take a lively part in the battle for the first division berths.

The players of the mauling Phillies, highly enthused over their sensational finish in the closing months of the last race, declare that they will not be satisfied simply to improve their position but expect to be a contender for the championship. Their pitchers will confirm or deny this claim.

With Lester Bell adding a punch at third base and at least one fair to middling pitcher available from the new crop, Joe McCarthy starts the season with rosy prospects.

Pittsburgh is experimenting with a brilliant minor leaguer, Gus Shurtz at first base, but the rest of the Pirates are much the same as the 1929 outfit.

Burlingame Grimes may not get the start he had last year when he howled the opposition over right and left until he was hurt when a drive struck his wrist. Ben Banker, an infielder from Selma of the Southeastern league, has been one of the best of the Buccaneers prospects.

GIANT KEYSTONE.

Making adequate arrangements for protection of second base will be the Giants' problem this year as it was last. If a capable second sacker is developed the team will be formidable for some of the pitchers, notably the usually reliable Larry Benton, will not have two poor years in succession. Close observers of the Giants' practice period have been disappointed at the showing of the recruits as a whole.

St. Louis under a new manager, the veteran Gabby Street, is standing up on the starting lineup, but with additional reserve strength in readiness to answer a call for help. The Cardinals have a veteran pitching staff and their chances will be decided, perhaps, by the ability of some of these pitchers to continue to pitch winning games.

Pro Plays in Five Cities in One Day

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 25.—(AP)—Jack Cawsey, local professional, played 45 holes of golf in five different Florida cities today.

Hopping off from municipal airport here at the crack of dawn, Cawsey flew to Ocala, where he turned in nine holes. He went to Orlando from there. At noon he was playing another nine at Daytona Beach. At St. Augustine he played in a foursome, and the nightcap was played at the municipal course here, where Cawsey is the pro.

Paul Grassfield was the pilot of the plane and May McCormick, local newspaperwoman and aviation enthusiast, completed the party which set out from here.

The trio ran into foul weather between Ocala and Orlando, but landed on schedule in each of the five cities visited.

TECH BOXERS START TODAY

40 Jackets Entered in Tourney To Decide School Champs.

With some 40 entries on the books, the first school-wide Georgia Tech boxing tournament is scheduled to get under way in the gym at the Flats at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Mike Chambers, jacket trainer, who has been working with the wearers of leather, has kept his charges going at a fast clip since the start of the sport shortly after the first of the year.

He has promised and unearthed a number of promising young boxers, and promises a real show when the lads crawl between the ropes in search of titles.

Seven class championships, from bantamweight to heavyweight, are on the books for decision in the finals Friday night.

The biggest drawing card class is expected to be the mammoth division, wherein Vance Marree, Tom Cain, "Moon" Nebitt, "Bull" Millians and Clint Ezell, all of the gridiron contingents, are to mix and mingle. Panchers all, the quintet is expected to pound away at each other with plenty of willingness and power.

The light-heavyweights, with Earl Dunlap and Bea Cherry outstanding at the moment, are also counted on to produce their share of long swings and resonating smacks.

Plenty of skill, will and power are present in the candidates of all classes, and the public, invited to come and see by Chambers, should be in for three days of real enjoyment. Bouts today will start at 4 o'clock, with the final elimination slated for this afternoon. Thursday's card will name the finalists, who will fight it out for the titles starting at 8 o'clock Friday night.

BILL MEHLHORN PUTS DASH, TIM IN GOLF GAME

Wild One's LaGorce Open Victory Was Very Popular.

By Walter Trumbull.

(Copyright, 1930, by The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance.)

NEW YORK, March 25.—Few golfers are more colorful than Wild William Mehlhorn, who won the $15,000 LaGorce open tournament at Miami Beach, Fla., today.

LaGorce, a little exuberant, a bit eccentric. It even has been said that, if he were a baseball pitcher, he would be a left-hander, but when he puts his mind on the game there are not many better golfers. He is a most likable individual and his victories are popular.

The course over which Mehlhorn triumphed is named for John Oliver LaGorce, in whose sanctum at the National Geographic Magazine resort the club originally used by Rodrick Dhu. These halves and corks form the only set of clubs owned by Mr. LaGorce and it is said they were on their way to the Smithsonian when diverted from their original purpose.

LIKES FISHING.

Fishing is Mr. LaGorce's idea of a good sport and it is reported he was in favor of having on the course many water hazards, alternately stocked with sail fish and tarpon, but this was found impracticable.

Young Horton Smith, who finished a stroke behind Bill Mehlhorn, has gained a lot of experience. I first saw him in New York. A tall, eager, attractive boy, who disdained bat or overcoat on a chilly, damp day, he was interested while in the city, looking at restaurants and soda fountains and in seeing all the large golf club shops, and I never knew just why—Little Church around the Corner. He was interested in going down and picking out his roommate on the boat for his first trip abroad. His roommate was Ed Dudley.

At the time Horton Smith hailed from out of Joplin, Mo., way, now he registers from Cragston, N. Y. Cragston, as we remember, is one of those luxurious, beautifully appointed clubs up the Hudson. One of these clubs inadvertently won a prize, mistakingly suggesting I was eligible to join, and mentioning as an inducement the prize was a yachts where a yacht might be moored. I replied asking what provision had been made for a rowboat, but by that time the error must have been discovered, as I never heard anything more.

SARAZEN SURPRISING.

It is a bit surprising that Gene Sarazen didn't do better in the LaGorce tournament. Sarazen, the player that course a lot and usually a good over it. Others, finishing in the rack, who might have been expected to do better, were Sam Snead, who was a Henri Club, Denny Shute and Bobby Cruickshank.

I have a peculiar personal interest in that LaGorce course. The holes are named, all except one, for fairly eminent golfers, such as Hoot, Tiger Jones, Walter Hagen and Gene Sarazen. But Carl Fisher, who owns the hole, and John Oliver LaGorce, who was not a Boy Scout, feel that they must do their own good jobs a day. Therefore, when they came to the little 135-yard 13th hole, the shortest on the course, they debated.

Finally rejecting the idea of naming it after one of the Singer midgets, they named it for me, and put up a bronze marker to that effect. Par for that hole is 3. Naturally, I am satisfied to observe that some of the contestants took as many as five strokes to hole out, and that Mehlhorn, on at least one round, took 11 strokes. It is a bit humiliating to note the Bobby Cruickshank scored a two.

SEVERAL SOLUTIONS.

This is not to be borne. Somebody will be making a one on that hole unless something is done about it. Several solutions of the difficulty have occurred to me. The trouble is that most of them involve labor.

I might plant a line of trees 50 yards in front of the tee. Or I might dig a well in the middle of the green, piling the excavated earth in a pyramid and planting the cup at the apex. Either of these remedies would make it a harder par 3.

But the easiest thing would be to let the cup alone but to steal out and plant the flag some 20 yards beyond the green. As I remember, the grounds there slants away sharply, at least on one side, and this natural depression could be planted with bushes and creepers.

Watch the scores on that 13th hole next year.

Atlanta Bowlers Fail at Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Ohio, March 25.—Atlanta pinsters, who participated in the annual tournament of the American Bowling Congress, are en route home tonight, but with no visions of prize checks for none of the three pairs nor any of the six individuals rolling was able to nick the pins for paying counts.

T. Thompson and J. Bell proved the nearest approach in the doubles when they toppled the timber for a 1,122 score. They opened well with a 280 game, but slumped to a 351 in the second. Then came a 381, but it was not quite high enough.

Bell proved best for Atlanta in the singles as it was only a low opening game of 157 that stopped him from cashing as he came back with a pair of good games to total 548.

SPORTS ILLUSTRATED Grantland Rice

The Frousy Limit.

(Babe Ruth will soon lose his speed and then all he can do is to hit home runs.—Exchange.)

The stands are packed—the score is tied, A hooting hush falls on the mob;

A large boy warbles to the plate To carry on his daily job.

They know he can't beat out a hit; They know he won't steal second base;

No Paddock waits on nimble toes Where flying feet will set the pace;

He merely waits to get one right; The old mace whirrs with ancient flame,

And somewhere out beyond the park Another homer wins the game.

The brooding crowd gets up to go Where silence falls until it stuns,

As some one says: "The poor old mug—" "All he can do is hit home runs."

When I have lost my facile touch And when my aburn locks are snow;

When I no longer pipe my tunes As young Pan taught me years ago;

When I slip on some halting ode, Or skid a bit on some refrain—

As Homer nodded now and then, Or Milton showed the growing strain—

May those who trail my lyric touch In mart or home or crowded street,

Rise up and say: "The poor old egg—" "All he can do is write like Keats."

"Eckie."

Football has had its full share of great quarterbacks, but as far as one can measure all around performances the later Walter Eckersall led the field. Eckie died Monday and in his passing a great fellow and one of the best of the athletes left an open gap in the ranks.

Eckersall was not only Walter Camp's All-American pick at quarterback but he was also Mr. Camp's selection for all-time honors at this position. He was a star in every detail of quarterback play—a heady field general, a brilliant broken field runner, an exceptional combination of punter and drop kicker and a strong defensive back.

In three different games he drop-kicked five goals, which shows his ability along this line, and in every game he played through four years his punting was a big factor in Chicago's play. He was a maroon flash with the ball, and he was one of the few who could take a kick at top speed with no fear of a fumble or a muff.

Rival ends down the field on a kick always had to hit a flying target when the ball settled in Eckie's arms. And if they missed the stampede was on.

Quarterback play has given stars to football as Vance McCormick and Rockwell of Yale; Daley, of Harvard and West Point; Grance, of Illinois; Morrison, of Vanderbilt; Pfann, of Cornell; McMillen, of Centre; Killinger, of Penn State; Drury, of Southern California; Weeks, of Michigan, and a host of others, but none of these had the all-around ability of Stagg's Chicago flyer, who carried a rare combination of speed, brains, courage and skill.

One of the first meetings of Eckersall and Willie Heston is still remembered as a football classic. Michigan and Chicago met that day upon a field covered with light snow. On this particular play Heston broke through the Maroon line and within a few strides the big Michigan back was free, with only the 145-pound Chicago safety man barring the road.

In place of attempting to Dodge, Heston came at Eckersall with the rush of a buffalo. Eckie came in and dived for the knees. But at the last moment Heston jumped clear and clean to land beyond and keep on his way. Skating along on the ground Eckie was up in half a breath and the astonished Heston, an extremely fast 185-pounder, found himself hauled down from behind before he had run 30 yards. After that Eckie worked out a method of swinging alongside and mauling Heston with a flank attack that never failed.

After graduation Eckersall gathered further fame as a sporting writer and a football referee. His spots of friends extended from one coast to another and to thousands of these his death came as a heavy personal loss. Like so many great athletes he had a gentleness and a quiet modesty that made an instant appeal.

Once more a shadow drifts across the sky From death's quick thrust, Where one can only stand and say good bye Above your dust.

Born of the laurel and the game's estate Of knightly blend, Here's luck beyond the shadowed fields that wait, Sportsman and friend.

The candle now is dim; the silver bell Is faint and low; But here's to fairer fields where brave ghosts dwell, That you will know.

A Needed Operation.

It wouldn't be a bad idea if some famous surgeon could take out Johnny Risko's heart and plant the same in the breast of some of our leading heavyweights. He is no champion; but he has heart enough for two.

Johnny did not beat Campolo on Monday night by several laps, but at least he forced most of the fighting against a man 10 inches taller, 30 pounds heavier, faster on his feet, a better boxer and a harder puncher. This is no light handicap to face on the charge, but Risko kept charging.

If Campolo had Risko's aggressiveness the South American would have a great shot at the main title. He has improved his technique but at the same time has lost part of his earlier offense. Unless he can get that back, Campolo is going to have a hard time of it.

At 11 rounds Risko, which about entitles him to an even break in the two ten-round parties. Risko won a decision from the tall boy and got a draw and then the Cleveland baker lost a decision and got a win.

Anyone who can figure out this highly tangled method of refereeing of judging can tell Dr. Einstein where to get off.

Choice of 'Starters' Worries Tech Coach

By Herb Clark.

Lacking a starting lineup and with but two more days available for discoveries, Coach Kid Clay, who master-minds it for Georgia Tech's Yellow Jackets of the diamond, is finding the "master" job a hard one.

This selection business seems to be Clay's big worry, however. Most of his players are in fine shape, all of them are ready to take the field should it be necessary, and the faculty has smoothed his brow by failing to render any of his players ineligible in the recently filed grade report.

The Jackets lost a day of practice Tuesday as temperatures fell and winds rose to send the weather out of the "baseball" class. Clay expressed the opinion that it would do little harm, however, as the Jackets have been hitting a hot pace for the past few days and should benefit by the short vacation.

FINAL PICKING.

This afternoon and tomorrow are expected to be devoted to the final picking of the starting crew which is to take on Clemson's Tigers at the annual opening game Friday afternoon on the new Rose Bowl diamond.

The Tigers, Joe Guyton's trouble-makers, proved just that as they took the measure of Toronto's International-league Leafs on their home grounds Monday afternoon. Which does not leave the minds of the powers at the Flats in any peaceful or rambling state.

Clemson demonstrated a potent punch and an ability to come back. Trailing at 4-1 when the eighth inning opened, they deeped on the left pitchers to score three runs and made it a ball game again. They went out to win this new ball game in the final frame and put over the winning tally.

Wherefore Coach Clay reports that it is "just another Clemson team." The outlook at the Flats is anything but dark at the moment. There are 12 men fighting for places on the

RULES BOARD CLAMPS DOWN ON GRID SHIFT

Teams Must Count Six Before Going Into Action.

By Ted Vosburgh.

NEW YORK, March 25.—(AP)—Finding that some teams last fall were beating the stop rule on shift plays and others were wearing equipment the same color as the ball to trick opponents, the National Football Rules committee today announced definite action to curb such practices.

These were the most important results of the annual session of rule-makers for 1930.

Instead of "approximately one second" the stop period on shift plays was changed to "a period of at least one second."

COUNT INCREASED.

The count roughly measuring this moment of pause was increased from four to six and the referee was empowered to carry a split-second watch to assure himself that the rule is being obeyed.

Four pairs of eyes instead of one or two will be on a constant lookout for any and all violations of the rule next year, under a provision giving the referee, umpire, field judge and linesman "concurrent" jurisdiction over all fouls.

Under the old code there were certain fouls which the referee was to look out for and others for which one of his fellow officials was solely responsible.

The referee will act as the final judge, should any conflict of testimony or opinion arise.

Deploping "unsportsmanlike tendencies" as represented by the use of camouflage in designing uniforms, the committee adopted a resolution which deprecates the use of head protectors, jerseys or attachments which are so similar in color to the ball that they give the wearers an unfair and unsportsmanlike advantage over their opponents.

TWO COLORS.

The resolution further "suggests that if such head protectors are worn, the solid color of the helmet should be in contrast to the color of the jersey or attachments at least two inches in width and that the solid color of such jerseys or attachments be clearly broken by stripes or numbers of markedly contrasting color."

The committee felt that this statement which will appear in the 1930 rule book simply as a resolution will be sufficient to stop the abuse, but if it is planned to make it a mandatory regulation in 1931.

Some of the most ingenious abuses since the "bootleg football" evil of 1928, when "sneaky" balls designed for passing were widely distributed to teams stressing an aerial attack, led to the committee's action.

One well-known halfback last fall, a player of the committee's staff, made a practice of wearing a headgear which had no chin strap and which would roll like a football which it resembled in shape and size. Before he was tackled this player would dislodge his headgear to make it appear that he had fumbled.

NIGHT GAMES.

When the playing of night games came into vogue, the committee was quick to the request of certain teams to play with a ball painted white.

"Last season," William S. Langford, secretary and spokesman of the committee, pointed out, "some of the teams abused this by appearing on the field clad in white jerseys."

In addition, the newly reconstituted rules with the number of separate provisions reduced from 28 to 13, received its sixth and final revision at the hands of the members of the committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association in their annual session last week-end at Absecon, N. J.

Representatives of all sections of the country and of the National Football Coaches' Association strongly recommended no material change in the content of the rules from those of last year and the work of the committee consisted of revising the new code and making the rules more proof against the instances of sharp practice noted.

Those present were: E. K. Hall, Dartmouth, chairman; W. S. Langford, Trinity, secretary; Tad Jones, Yale, representing New England; Bill Rogers, Princeton, middle Atlantic states; H. J. Stegeman, University of Georgia, southeastern states; A. A. Stagg, Chicago, middle west; M. F. Ahern, Kansas A. & M., Missouri valley; Ray Morrison, Southern Methodist, southwest; W. O. Hunter, Southern California, Pacific coast; H. W. Hughes, Colorado, Agass, Rocky Mountain states; Glenn Warner, Stanford, Jack Sutherland, Pittsburgh, and Bob Zuppke, Illinois, representing the advisory committee of coaches; W. R. Oleson, Lehigh; F. A. Lambert, Ohio State, and A. W. Palmer, Colby, representing the advisory committee of officials, and W. A. Alexander, Georgia Tech, president of the National Football Coaches' Association.

The reconstituted committee consisted of Messrs. Hall, Langford, Oleson, Lambert and Palmer.

Mississippi Boy On Roby's Card

Tiger Lawrence, of Okolona, Mississippi state champion in the welterweight division, has been matched against Cowboy Kid, the fast punching Atlanta boy, on Roby's all-star card at the auditorium for April 2.

Lawrence is a fast, hard hitting lad who has gone rapidly to the top strictly on merit. On January 9, the record says, he grabbed the state title from Battling Carrollton, a husky welter who had long been the dusky pride of the fans, in what was said to be one of the best and most exciting battles in the history of the state.

Lawrence floored Carrollton four times with left hooks and jabs in the sixth, and again four times in the eighth. He won a series of crosses that put him away for keeps. That was Tiger's fourth K. O. in as many starts.

In Lawrence, Cowboy Kid is going up against decidedly the toughest proposition he has yet met, and as they are evenly matched in poundage, the scrap should be one of near approach to the two main classics between Jack Townsend and Bob Lawson and California Joe Gans and Roy Dunn.

Promoter Roby is certainly giving the fans a run for their money in the number and quality of bouts he has matched. He says that the card will be the most costly of any he has staged since his first show in 1923, and from present indications, the fans will turn out in greater numbers than ever before. Ladies, as usual, will be admitted free.

Sculls Champion Is Reported Out

English rowing circles have been informed that L. H. F. Gunther, the Dutch sculler who lifted the Diamond Sculls at last year's Royal English Henley, may not be able to defend his title next July.

Ruth Picks Yanks, Cubs To Win Flats

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 25.—(UN)—Babe Ruth today picked the New York Yankees to win the American league pennant with the Chicago Cubs to repeat in the National league. In naming New York, the Babe exceeded the optimism of Bob Shawkey, who last week said that the Yankees and the Athletics were about even.

Ruth said he did not believe the Athletics would be as strong as in 1929. He doubted Fox and Simmons would have as good a year.

"Give us a little pitching and we'll beat those A's," he said. "If Mack's hurling is as good as it was in 1929, he ought to win again. But I don't think it will turn out that way."

AUBURN DRILLS FOR FIRST TILT

Tigers Meet Tulane Nine in Two Games Friday, Saturday.

AUBURN, Ala., March 25.—With a record of three wins and one loss in four games against non-conference opposition, Coach Fred Sheridan's Auburn Tiger baseballers are down to serious work in preparation for the two-game series with the Tulane Greenies, Friday and Saturday, here on Drake field.

The Tigers were not by any means impressive in their one-point loss to the Selma Cloverleafs in their last game. Both teams recorded the same number of hits, but the Plainsmen failed to send out base-knocks when they were needed. Several unlooked for plays showed that the Bengals were plenty of fielding practice before they will be able to win games from the strongest teams in the Southern conference.

The showing of Clifford Smith, who relieved Carter on the mound in the Selma tilt, was very pleasing to the Tiger followers. Smith received credit for losing the game, but performed on the mound like a veteran the three innings that he pitched. The winning tally was the only one made off his deceptive slurve delivery. He is only a sophomore and has already established a reputation that he will be able to take his regular turn on the mound without any one worrying about his effectiveness. He has only seen service as a relief pitcher, but probably will get his chance to start a game against Tulane unless Buck Carter regains his 1929 form during the week. Ray Prim has been nominated to start against the Crescent City nine in the first fray.

Rupert Ingram, catcher, has improved his batting eye since last season and is one of the leading assets on the team. He has batted out six hits, including two doubles, in 11 times at bat. His fielding behind the plate has also been improved which gives the Orange and Blue nine two dependable catchers as Ray Kaley, sophomore, is also looking good receiving slants from Pirm, Harkins, Carter, Smith, West and Hall.

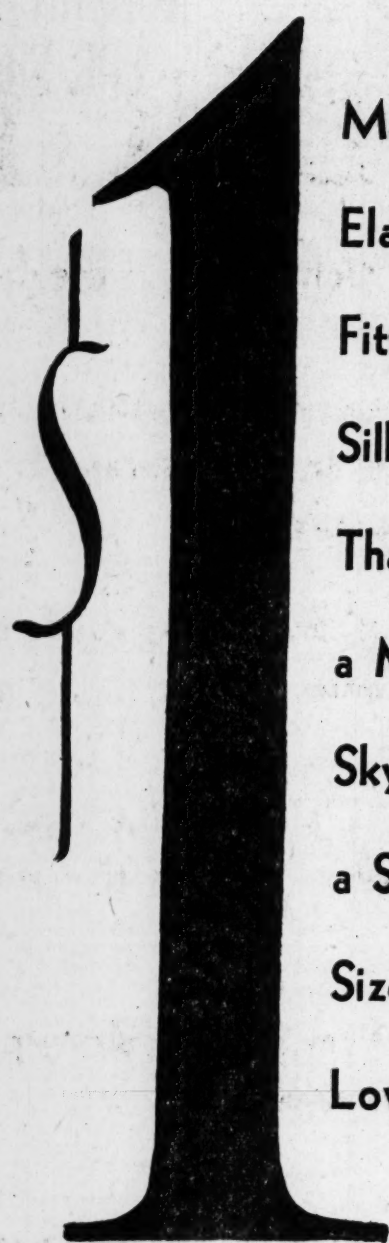

The team as a whole has shown up very well in the four games played to date, but needs plenty of fielding practice which Coach Sheridan has failed to be silenced as they have slammed out 50 hits in four contests. Ingram, Pate, Bart, Riley, Newton, Hodges, Lloyd, Kaley and Prim have been the heavy sluggers against Fort Benning, Birmingham and Selma. The team is batting .320.

A Southern Institution for Sixty-two Years PRESENTS A GREAT EXPOSITION AND SALE of SOUTHERN-MADE PRODUCTS!

In an exposition of Southern-Made products it is quite fitting and proper that Rich's . . . the South's oldest department store . . . should write the synopsis and set the stage.

Atlanta born . . . Atlanta owned . . . Atlanta managed . . . Rich's has been a Southern Institution for more than 62 years. And in all these years we have ever been the first to recognize and encourage the South's infant industries . . . to hold out a warm, welcoming hand to these . . . our own people!

This exposition is in recognition of the progress that the commercial and industrial South has made in the span of three generations. Before that time we were . . . as was said of Italy in Napoleonic days . . . "merely a geographical expression."

And the royal roster of manufacturers . . . gathered together on these pages . . . is but modest intimation of the phenomenal growth that the South has experienced in less than sixty-five years . . . of the world-fame that has come to the "land of cotton."

Important, influential industries flourish here and will continue to flourish . . . from the populous plains of Texas to the blue-misted mountains of the Carolinas . . . from toys to towels and mops to mattresses . . . from shirts to shoes and frocks to furniture! Today we feature products from . . .

Mrs. Westlake Being Feted In Atlanta

Among the interesting visitors in Atlanta at present is Mrs. E. H. Westlake, of New York, a very charming woman, who is proving an inspiration for a series of informal social affairs, one being a luncheon given yesterday at the Piedmont Driving Club. Conversation veered around to the international flower show held last week in Grand Central palace in the metropolis. She described the gorgeous plaque sent to America by Queen Wilhelmina, of Holland, and bearing the royal coat of arms done in colors. It was protected by a glass case, and offered as a trophy for the most perfect tulips exhibited in the show. The coveted prize went to Mrs. Marshall Field, her bed of colorful tulips being banked about statuary and splashing fountains.

Mrs. Westlake told of the President Hoover rose exhibited at this show. It is a large flower of a very glorious combination of cerise-pink, flame, scarlet and yellow, and having broad thick petals. It gives a most dazzling yet soft color effect, and has a lemon fragrance which delights every rose devotee. The Mrs. Herbert Hoover rose is crimson, the petals look like velvet, and its fragrance is delightful. Mrs. Westlake accompanied her husband, E. H. Westlake, who has many business interests in this section of the country and they are at the Biltmore. It is Mrs. Westlake's first visit south, and she expressed herself as being greatly charmed with its people and customs. Their lovely young daughter, Miss Harriet Westlake, a student at Vassar, is visiting Mrs. Hannah Sterne at her Westmoreland drive home in Ansley Park, and was honor guest at a luncheon in another part of the club, the same day her mother was entertained. Miss Westlake is a willowy slender creature, wore a gown of purple chiffon, and Mrs. Westlake wore a most becoming costume of black tulle.

Mrs. and Mrs. Westlake are friends of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell C. King and Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Sterne and will remain in Atlanta throughout this week.

There will be flower and folk dances; marches and setting up exercises; Indian club and dumbbell drills; and the finals in the volleyball tournament.

One of the features of the exercises will be the pyramid tumbler exercises in which the following young ladies will participate: Misses Martha de Gollan, Elizabeth Preseder, Sarah Hewlett, Eileen Conroy, Barbara Zuber, Betty Zuber, Mary Helmer, Elizabeth Clay, Beverly Rogers, Helen Lowndes, Gene Scott, Eleanor Blosser, Emily Reams, Nina A. Fuller, Betty Powell, Louise King, Judy King, Marguerite Roddey, Josephine Lippold, Ann Darsen and Marion Clark.

No More Cold Creams

No More Skin Foods or Astringents This New Way

The four fundamentals of skin care are condensed into a single, 3-minute application.

A Scientific Discovery that Condenses a Complete Professional Facial Into a Single Application, Taking Less Than 3 Minutes, That Combine the 4 Fundamentals in Skin Care Urged by Experts!

Now comes a remarkable new development in beauty science. A discovery that experts predict may soon change all previous methods in skin care.

A way that condenses the four fundamentals of scientific skin care into a single, three-minute home application! And that provides the exact same effect of a complete Professional Facial costing $3 or more.

Hence, a way that completely eliminates the need of costly special creams and lotions. Of old-time cleansing creams, of "skin foods" and astringents. Yet that is as easy to use as an ordinary cleansing cream.

Do you wonder, then, that largely on expert advice tens of thousands of women are adopting this unique creation?

What It Is

It is called Lady Esther Four-Purpose Cream. And it marks the application of totally new principles in skin care as defined by the most recent scientific findings of ablest specialists in the field of beauty culture.

Each application has four distinct actions on the skin.

Cleansing action that cleanses the pores. And thus ends the use of an ordinary cleansing cream.

Tissue stimulating action that invigorates the deep tissues of the skin. And thus ends the use of a special "skin food."

Astringent action that eradicates worry, strain and premature aging lines, redness, pores. And thus makes the use of youth creams and astringents a folly.

Softening action that forms a perfect base for powder. And thus banishes the need of a powder base.

Thus the four fundamentals of skin care are condensed into a single, 3-minute application.

Age lines soon go under this daily care. Flabby tissues strengthen and become firm. The skin is kept clean—for the astringent action of this cream closes the pores after they've been cleaned. And thus closes them against accumulations that foster imperfections.

Adventures of Seckatary Hawkins

HERE WE WERE—THE DOG AND I—SO NEAR TO UNK'S PRISON—READY TO SET HIM FREE—WHEN LINDY WORST ENEMY, THE FAT UNCLE RAFAEL, SURPRISED US IN THE DARK PASSAGE OF THE CAVE. TELL ME BARKED. THE LANTERN WAS RAISED—

THE LIGHT FELL UPON US. "AH!" EXCLAIMED UNCLE RAFAEL. "YOU HAVE COME TO SEE YOUR PLAYMATE, YES? THAT IS NICE. SUCH NICE LITTLE BOYS. WAIT, I LET YOU SEE YOUR AMERICAN FRIEND." HE TOUCHED THE WALL—

THERE CAME A WHIRRING SOUND—SOMETHING WAS MOVING UPWARD—IT WAS A BLOCK OF STONE. VALDEZ HAD TOLD ME OF SUCH DOORS—USED IN THE OLD DAYS WHEN PIRATES HAD THESE CAVES—NOW I WAS ABOUT TO LOOK INTO ONE OF THE TORTURE CHAMBERS.

THE STONE BLOCK CONTINUED TO RISE UNTIL IT HAD MADE AN OPENING ABOUT FOUR FEET HIGH. THEN THE WHIRRING NOISE STOPPED, AND UNCLE RAFAEL HELD THE LANTERN ABOVE THE OPENING. "NOW," HE SAID, "YOU GO FIRST."

Losses of nearly a point appeared in International Telephone 5s, United States Rubber 5s, North American

Edison 5s, Erie 5s and Chicago Great Western 5s.

On the other hand, Chicago & Eastern

Illinois 5s continued to show

strength on reports of Van Swearingen purchases into the road. Florida East

Coast 5s, New York Central 6-2s, and Shore 6s improved 6 points. Thus the little bullishness remaining in the market was in the low-priced issues.

Late trading as stocks lost their gains.

American Telephone 4-2s made a new high since the market break by 1929-30 was 3-2s below the previous high. Allegheny 5s of 1930 lost about a point.

There were fractional declines in Baltimore & Ohio 4-2s, International

Telephone 4-2s, New Haven 6s, Texas

Pacific 5-2s, with warrants.

On the other hand, the whole, well supported. Belgium 7s made the new high of 100 1/2, closing a point higher. Austrian 7s likewise gained

a point.

Two railroads revealed plans for new financing. The Virginian Railway, which has a $5,000,000 issue of 4-2s, is authorized to issue $1,000,000 to replace it with a 4-2s note. The Nickel Plate requested permission

THE GUMPS—SOUP'S ON

The Emperor of America
by Sax Rohmer

THIRTEENTH INSTALLMENT.

"Datura metel, soft-haired thorn-apple, was the variety used by the 'thugs.' The speaker's voice went on: 'Opium and hashish were formerly blended with it. My preparation is based upon Datura sanguinea, the Peruvian red thorn-apple, and the source of the native drug called Tonga.'"

"He appears to be in a profound stupor." This voice was softly musical. "He is in the state called Kal by a certain sect located in Nizam. He is conscious of all that is said, but is powerless to speak or stir. Whatever he is ordered to do during the next 24 hours, while in this condition, he will carry out to the letter. This little-known formula explains many political assassinations which have puzzled British officials in India."

"But will he remember?" "Nothing! You will order him to forget. Or, if you desire his death, you will order him to destroy himself."

"If I were sure of his forgetting, I should prefer him to live."

"Be sure, I accept the responsibility." Some moments of silence followed; then—

"John O'Shaughnessy Burke," said the musical voice, "Open your eyes." Deputy Commissioner Burke opened his eyes.

He found himself in an apartment which he could not believe to be real. Above his head was a golden dome. The floor, the walls, the lamps were black and gold. Behind a long, narrow table sat a creature resembling a mummy. A pair of supernaturally long slit eyes stared him hypnotically.

He lay inert, helpless, upon a wheeled hospital stretcher. There was no one else in the room, which seemed to have neither door nor windows. But a spot of blue light glowed strangely, unaccountably, upon the wall before the table.

"John Burke—there was no perceptible movement of that dead yellow face—you will leave your brother's apartment at 4 o'clock and return to police headquarters."

"Be more explicit," urged the invisible speaker. "Remember that orders during the state of Kal are obeyed literally. Make it clear that he is, first, to forget this interview, but to awaken on reaching his brother's home, and, second, to remember to leave Father Burke's at four."

Another moment of silence, then: "When I cease speaking," the musical voice resumed, "you forget all that has occurred since you fell asleep. You will awaken when your chauffeur says, 'Here we are, sir.' You will leave Father Burke's at 4 o'clock and return to Central street."

The flow of words ceased. A red light glowed beside the blue one.

"H. Q.," said a voice, "Report of sector captain covering Hotel Memphis just to hand. Ned W. Regan spent 40 minutes with Dr. Stopford. Dr. Stopford went out 10 minutes later. He was joined in the lobby by a South American acquaintance, Ramon de Sa by name. He invited this man to accompany him to the home of Father Burke. Group master covering. Titled three twenty-five."

Report ended. The red light and the blue glowed side by side. John Burke watched helplessly. The man at the table gave no sign of life. Not a murmur from the hectic street below penetrated to that room; then—"Connect Zone Officer 2-A direct with me in three minutes," came an order.

The long, narrow eyes became fixed again upon the helpless man. The red light went out.

"I shall now repeat my instructions," said the creature at the table. "Here we are, sir!"

Burke opened his eyes. He was in his car—and his car was drawn up before a familiar porch. Lazarovich stood at the door waiting for him to alight.

He stared, dazedly, at the clock in the car. It recorded three fifteen. "It isn't possible!" he muttered, and took out his watch. Three fifteen. Burke got out. His head was aching frantically. He felt ill.

"See here, Lazarovich," said he, and broke off abruptly. Vaguely, indefinitely, he knew that there was some mystery. He had been taken ill... something had happened to him, something incredible and unrememberable. But above all something that could not have occurred in the 25 minutes which had elapsed since he had left Central street.

"Five o'clock," he said to the chauffeur, and went into the building. But a deadly fear had clutched him. He doubted his own sanity...

"Are we followed?" Roscoe asked, as the taxi moved away from the porch of the Memphis hotel.

Stopford peered back along the street, and: "Yes," he reported. "A man in a two-seater."

"They are covering you in hope of finding me!" said Roscoe. "So far, we are on a point; I regard Father Burke as an important stepping stone. His brother is in charge at police headquarters just now. But it's more than my life is worth to venture near Central street. As 'De Sa' I had a chance, but if I'm to use it, Deputy Commissioner Burke must make the acquaintance of De Sa under conditions likely to deceive the Zone gang. It may be necessary to confide in Father Pat. But don't make any move in that direction unless I tip you."

"They are holding the suspects?" "Certainly. But they can't hold them indefinitely. Many are undoubtedly innocent. Headquarters doesn't know what to look for." Out of the unfamiliar face of De Sa the clear gray seaman's eyes of Drake Roscoe stared.

"Among the men arrested are members of the gang; and members of the gang wear a secret badge. I am not a trust this fact to anyone, but I want to see those badges and I want to talk to the men who wear them."

When the taxi drew up before Father Burke's door a smart two-seater passed close outside and then halted in front of an antique store half-way along the block.

"They know we're here!" Roscoe muttered savagely. Upstairs, in Father Pat's apartment, Roscoe's distaste for his disguise became acute. Molly O'Hay, the father's niece, newly out from Limerick, was guest of honor. She was unaffectedly and exquisitely shy, a real wild Irish rose.

Introductions being over, Stopford found himself with his host for a moment. Patrick Burke was very much like his brother, John, except that he lacked the permanent frown, and had instead a permanent smile.

"Where's Roscoe?" he whispered urgently. "I haven't told you, Father," Stopford whispered in reply. "Good enough. Roscoe presently joined Stopford. 'She hates me!' he said, his eyes following Molly as she crossed the room. 'A girl like that would hate a man like I seem to be.'"

"The deputy commissioner isn't here."

"He's expected. He's late—nearly an hour. It's a quarter to four and he was here at three. I have asked Father Pat in my prettiest Argentine to beg his brother to permit me to view the 'Tombs' Prison later today. I want you to seize an opportunity to whisper to the commissioner that it is Roscoe's wish that De Sa and yourself should drive back with him when he leaves."

Stopford joined Molly O'Hay who, to the intense annoyance of Roscoe, was being monopolized by a junior lieutenant who had formerly served under him.

"What do you think of my comic pal, Miss O'Hay?" Stopford began. "He's much nicer than his little whiskers would lead one to suppose."

"He has such a funny way of looking at me!" Molly said. "His eyes don't seem to belong to him."

Further conversation was interrupted by the arrival of John Burke. Molly heard his voice and ran out into the lobby to meet him. He had stepped from the elevator with a hunted look in his eyes. Now, his gaze set on a grandfather's clock which Patrick Burke had had sent all the way from Limerick, was as a man dazed.

MOON MULLINS—A NEW WAY TO KEEP A COOK

Tariff Measure Is Returned To House for Consideration

Sugar, Brick, Cement and Lumber Are Four Highly Controversial Items.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—(AP)—After ten months, the tariff bill carrying more than 1,200 amendments today was returned by the senate to the house and consideration was deferred until Monday.

Republican leaders there generally favored a rule for its consideration broad enough to meet the demands of the various factions in their ranks, including provisions to permit the house members to express themselves on four highly controversial items—brick, cement, sugar and lumber.

Speaker Longworth and Chairman Snell, of the house rules committee, held numerous conferences with leaders of the different factions. Snell had announced that he would not be adverse to a rule which permits a vote on those items, and added that he "did not believe there would be much opposition."

"The members from the northwest states want a vote on certain controversial items, and I believe that they should be given the opportunity," Snell said. "Of course, tariff making is compromise, and we must strike a middle road to treat every section of the country as fairly as possible."

Snell said that "no serious difficulty was expected" by the leaders. He expressed the opinion that it was not possible for a tariff measure to be formed in opposition to whatever plan for consideration is finally decided upon.

"The members will have a few days in which to digest the senate bill and find that there are few wide differences in the rates," the New Yorker said.

Representative Ramseyer, republican, Iowa, a leader of the farm bloc, who yesterday on the floor demanded the privilege of voting on the controversial items, conferred with Longworth and Snell, accompanied by a group of midwestern representatives. Afterwards, he expressed confidence that "a rule that meets our demand will be reported."

While the republicans and democrats were jockeying for a position in the house, the tariff-measure senate adjourned after a brief business session, for a week's rest.

Representative C. D. Tamm, of Texas, the democratic leader, began a move to muster his forces for the consideration of the measure after Snell announced on the floor that the bill would be brought before the house next week.

In debate on the floor, Representative Spruill, republican, Kansas, contended that the debate plan placed in the bill by the senate should be retained. Garner asked the Kansas how many republicans could muster, and Spruill estimated there would be as many republicans voting for the plan as democrats.

"If you get that many," the Texas said, "we will pass the debate." While Garner made plans to press

Wardens Organize As Permanent Group

RICHMOND, Va., March 25.—(AP)—The first eastern-state conference on institutional labor today was made up of wardens from the southern states.

The conference emphasized that prisoners should be kept employed and urged adoption of the state use system for prison goods, under which such goods would be withdrawn entirely from the open markets and distributed to the uses of the state and its subdivisions.

Colonel J. D. Sears, of the New Jersey prison board, was named permanent chairman of the organization. Dr. Walter N. Thayer, of Maryland, vice chairman, and Captain Calvert J. Estill, of West Virginia, secretary.

The executive committee includes: C. A. Moffett, Alabama; J. S. Hamilton, Delaware; J. E. C. Bischoff, District of Columbia; J. L. Blitch, Florida; H. E. Thayer, Maryland; G. G. Adlon, New Jersey; J. N. Whiteley, North Carolina; J. N. Pearson, South Carolina; Richard H. Yowell, Virginia; Henry N. Bradley, West Virginia; H. E. Andrews, Pennsylvania.

He had been thrust into the tender flesh of his face and into his mouth. He continued to yelp. You see, it was very painful. He didn't even notice that Prickly Porky paid no further attention to him, but shuffled off about his business.

Sadly, Flip turned toward home. He had become aware that the pains in his face and in his mouth were from a lot of little things like barbed thorns that were sticking in his face and mouth. They were the little spears of Prickly Porky—quills, as they are called. One was sticking in the bottom of his right forehead, so that he had to walk on three legs. How it had happened he didn't know yet. But you know. You know that he had been slapped by Prickly Porky's tail.

Farmer Killed In Street Battle

CLARKSDALE, Miss., March 25.—(AP)—J. L. Doggett, 57, planter and logger, was shot to death and L. R. Carter, 50, carpenter, was wounded in a gun battle late today in the crowded downtown section of Clarksdale when a fusillade of shots were exchanged between Doggett and E. S. Chapman, deputy prohibition administrator of northern Mississippi.

Chapman was arrested after the shooting and taken to the Coahoma county jail on a charge of murder. "Bad feelings" had existed between Chapman and Doggett for several months, police said, and when they met at the intersection of Second street and Yazoo avenue, angry words, then a fight ensued.

West Point Official's Resignation Denied

WASHINGTON, March 25.—(AP)—Information in army circles that Lieutenant Colonel Robert L. Richardson Jr., would be removed as commandant of cadets at West Point, was denied today by Major General Sumner, chief of the army staff.

Sumner said the nominal assistant to Major General William R. Smith, superintendent of the military academy, the report that he would be removed from his duties had been given some credence earlier in the day in military circles.

Savage said General Sumner's assertion Richardson would not be removed from his duties. Richardson, commandant of cadets was contemplated.
